

President Seeks Way of Assuring More Jobs in U. S.

Elimination of Extra Pay For Overtime Work Studied

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson's demand for new thinking in devising solutions to the nagging unemployment problem has produced a hint of possible action that could affect virtually every American worker.

After conferring with Johnson at the LBJ Ranch, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz suggested to newsmen it might be wise to study the present time-and-a-half pay rate for overtime work.

He said elimination of overtime would open up the equivalent of 919,000 full-time jobs.

Wirtz' suggestion came three days after a Johnson aide had told newsmen the President wanted new thinking on possible ways to cope with persistent unemployment troubles.

Johnson indicated Friday he is trying hard to keep his new budget, for the 1965 fiscal year that begins July 1, below $100 billion. He even said it might wind up one or two percentage points below that level.

A cut of two per cent from $100 billion would yield a spending blueprint of $98 billion, or less than the record-breaking budget of $98.8 billion submitted to Congress a year ago by the late President John F. Kennedy.

Fund Requests Cut

However, it seemed unlikely that Johnson could avoid a budget bigger than ever.

The President, holding an impromptu news conference on the front porch of his ranch home, said the budget "will hover above or below $100 billion; it might be off a small percentage."

And he reported that he had sliced several hundred million dollars each from the spending requests of the Agriculture Department, the Atomic Energy Commission and the space agency.

But he didn't say whether he was cutting these programs below current totals or simply reducing requests that traditionally exceed going levels.

He did state there will be no pullback from the commitment to put an American on the moon by 1970, a project that could cost as much as $40 billion.

And Wirtz, meeting with reporters at press headquarters in Austin, said that in his department there will be no cuts in "human needs" activities. He said these will proceed "full speed ahead."

Search for Plane In Its Third Day

HONOLULU (AP)—Search for a missing Air Force transport plane and nine persons aboard went into its third day today as 60 aircraft and four ships combed 414,000 square miles of Pacific Ocean.

Up to Friday night, Air Force, Navy and Coast Guard planes had flown 77 sorties over the search area, midpoint of which is about 700 miles west of the Hawaiian Islands.

The 60 military planes and four Navy ships were to be joined by the American Presidential liner President Wilson.

Nineteen aircraft flew into Hickam Air Force Base Friday night from Travis AFB, Calif., and three air rescue planes—two from Japan and one from Guam—also are being added to the task force.

ADN reported.

While the Berliners made the most of their last 48 hours of visiting, politicians of East and West jockeyed for political position.

Both sides have called for negotiations to allow West Berliners to visit the Soviet sector of the divided city after the present holiday crossings of the wall end at midnight Sunday.

Alabama Bans U. S. Officers

Governor Orders Them Kept Away At Auburn Campus

AUBURN, Ala. (AP)—Gov. George C. Wallace ordered Alabama State troopers today to eject any federal officers from the Auburn University campus when the school's first Negro student registers later in the day.

Wallace sent a toughly worded telegram to Col. Albert Lingo, state public safety director, backing up and spelling out Lingo's orders of Friday barring federal agents from the campus.

Lingo told his 100 troopers Friday, "If any federal agent tries to force his way past you, use force if necessary to stop him."

Present as Observers

A Justice Department spokesman in Washington said there were no plans for any federal officers to enter the campus or escort the Negro, Harold A. Franklin, who will be admitted under a federal court order.

The spokesman said some federal agents were in Auburn as observers only.

Lingo said that Franklin would be allowed to register after university officials announced they would comply with court orders.

While Lingo's action raised the possibility of a new federal-state confrontation, the federal reaction apparently erased the threat of a showdown similar to Gov. George C. Wallace's use of troopers last fall to temporarily block Negroes from the University of Alabama at Tuscaloosa and some public schools.

Throngs Pour Through Wall

BERLIN (AP)—A huge human tide poured through the Berlin wall today as the Communist concession of holiday visits to the East sector neared its end.

By noon over 100,000 people had surged through the Communist control points, the official East German news agency ADN reported.

While the Berliners made the most of their last 48 hours of visiting, politicians of East and West jockeyed for political position.

Both sides have called for negotiations to allow West Berliners to visit the Soviet sector of the divided city after the present holiday crossings of the wall end at midnight Sunday.

Man Revived After Heart Stops Beating

LADYSMITH (AP)—Walter Busse, 55, of Ladysmith, was reported in satisfactory condition in a hospital today after he sustained a heart stoppage earlier in the week and was revived by co-workers.

Busse was working at the Peavy Paper Mills in Ladysmith Tuesday when his heart stopped beating. Harold Grubb, 31, administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and Manning Genson, 44, gave him external heart massage.

The men worked on Busse until his heart started beating and then took him to a hospital.

Jordan's King Hails Pope At Start of Holy Land Visit

Jordanians in Native Garb surround Pope Paul VI as he receives greetings from representatives of Roman Catholic schools after his arrival at Amman airport today. Behind the Pope, wearing military cap, is Jordan's King Hussein. From the airport Pope Paul traveled by car 54 miles to Jerusalem. He will visit Israel Sunday, and cross back into the Jordanian sector of Jerusalem in the evening for his historic meeting with Patriarch Athenagoras of Constantinople, spiritual leader of the Orthodox churches. (AP Wirephoto)

Pontiff Tells Hussein He Is on 'Humble Pilgrimage' To Places Christ Made Holy

JERUSALEM (AP)—Pope Paul VI opened his historic pilgrimage in the Holy Land today with an expression of hope for all men to "attain to universal peace in true brotherhood."

The 66-year-old ruler of the Roman Catholic Church told Moslem King Hussein of Jordan the three-day visit is "a spiritual one, a humble pilgrimage to the sacred places made holy by the birth, the life, the passion and ascension."

"At each of these venerable shrines," the Pope said, "we shall pray for that peace which Jesus left to His disciples, that peace which the world cannot give, but which comes from the fulfillment of His commandment: To love one another as He loved us."

Shrines on the Pope's itinerary today included Christ's Way of the Cross and the Garden of Gethsemane. Sunday he visits holy places in Israel, across the no man's land dividing Palestine. He goes to Bethlehem Monday before returning to Rome.

The spiritual leader of the world's 550 million Roman Catholics was garbed in simple vestments of white as he alighted from an American-built airliner to the cheers of thousands waiting in Jordan's capital of Amman.

A driving northeast wind and a low ceiling over the airport made the landing uncertain until the last moment. But clearance was given, and the DC8 jet set down at the airport at 1:15 p.m. (6:15 a.m., EST) after a flight of 3 hours and 20 minutes from Rome. The temperature was 44 degrees.

A 21-gun salute boomed across the field, welcoming the Pope as head of the Vatican City state and 15 white pigeons were sent aloft.

"This visit is an occasion we will always remember and treasure," Hussein told the Pope.

By the time he returns to the Vatican late Monday the Pope will have traveled 3,500 miles by plane and car, possibly the longest papal trip in history. He will have visited Moslem Jordan and Jewish Israel and will have had the first meeting in five centuries between a Pope and a patriarch of the Orthodox church.

Jordan soldiers sought to clear a path to the Damascus Gate and the start of a trek in the footsteps of Christ to Calvary.

The Pope's motorcade, about 100 cars long, was escorted by Jordanian troops.

Rocky on Tour in New Hampshire

CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York moves into the streets today on a handshaking tour in pursuit of votes in the first-in-the-nation New Hampshire presidential primary.

Rockefeller, joined Friday by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., in the race for the Republican presidential nomination, turned to the personal approach after a speech in Portsmouth Friday night.

The governor's speech before a standing-room-only crowd of some 1,300 in Portsmouth High School pledged "to help build a Republican party that rejects the extremism of both the left and the right."

Youth Reported Dead Of Robber's Bullet Still Fights for Life

KENOSHA (AP)—A 23-year-old youth who was shot in the head during a holdup and was pronounced dead after emergency surgery and then revived, clinging tenaciously to life early today.

Attendants at St. Catherine's Hospital said Thomas Heather remained in very critical condition. They said Heather was pronounced dead shortly before noon Friday by attending physicians after completion of a three-hour operation on the bullet wounds.

A nurse detected a pulse a few minutes later. Resuscitation equipment was brought back and vital functions restored. The youth, who was hit by two slugs, either .22 or .32 caliber, did not regain consciousness.

'Favorite Son' Decision Will Be Told Monday

Position of Byrnes Will be Revealed By State Chairman

A decision on whether Eighth District Congressman John W. Byrnes, Green Bay, will run as a "favorite son" candidate in the presidential primary in April will be announced at a press conference at 10 a.m. Monday at the Conway Hotel, Talbot Peterson, state Republican chairman, said this morning.

Byrnes has been withholding his decision because of the assassination of President Kennedy and the resulting moratorium on political activity and because the president's death changed his commitments in Washington as a leading Republican congressman, holding key committee positions.

Peterson last week wrote Byrnes a letter asking a decision now because time is running short. The election is in April. Peterson was assured by Byrnes that his answer would be revealed by Peterson at the Monday press conference.

Byrnes originally had been proposed as a "favorite son" candidate by Congressman Melvin Laird, of the Seventh district, and has been subjected to criticism, especially from the two Milwaukee newspapers, because of his ownership of stock in MGIC, a Milwaukee mortgage firm.

Byrnes had intervened in behalf of the firm to gain a federal tax concession. This was interpreted in Democratic circles and by part of the press as a "conflict of interest." Byrnes subsequently announced that he would sell the stock and donate the proceeds of the sale to Scholarships, Inc., Green Bay, an organization which offers aid to high school students seeking college educations.

Taxpayers May Bear Part of Freight Costs in Wheat Deal

Not Clear Whether Subsidies May be Used for That Purpose

40 Dead and 120 Hurt in Yugoslav Train Collision

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—At least 40 persons were killed today when a crowded commuter train ran into a passenger train standing in the Jajinci Station nine miles south of Belgrade.

More than 120 people were injured, and by noon 12 had died in hospitals. Workers were still recovering bodies from the wreckage and many of the injured were in critical condition.

Official sources said they did not know of any foreigners among the dead so far.

Officials proclaimed a day of sorrow throughout the state of Serbia. All entertainments were canceled and flags were half-staffed.

The commuter train from Pozarevac was more crowded than usual because of the New Year holidays. Most shops and factories in Yugoslavia have been closed for the past three days.

BY OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's still not clear whether American taxpayers will help pay the ocean freight on 37 million bushels of U.S. wheat sold to the Soviet Union.

The sale is for cash, about $78.5 million. But it is not a simple cash sale.

The deal involves about $26 million in government subsidies—money which Uncle Sam originally got from those who pay taxes. What's not clear at the moment is whether the $26 million includes any of the cost of moving the grain from American to Soviet shores.

Worth $90 Million

The sale was disclosed Friday by both the Agriculture Department and the Continental Grain Co., the big New York grain company that engineered the deal with the government's blessing.

The wheat sold the Russians will have a value of about $90 million at U.S. ports. The Soviet Union will pay approximately $68.5 million for the grain delivered at their ports.

For years the Agriculture Department has been offering export subsidies on wheat because U.S. prices have been held above comparative world levels by grower price-support programs. Exporters have been able to make sales abroad only when the subsidies were sufficient to make up the difference between the higher U.S. prices and the lower world prices.

But the size of the subsidy approved for the Continental sale appeared to be larger than necessary to make up the difference between the domestic and world prices. The subsidy goes to the seller, not the buyer.

When the late President John F. Kennedy directed last fall that Soviet-bloc areas be made eligible for export subsidies, he specified that half the grain sold such areas be moved in U.S. flag ships to the extent available.

The Russians balked at use of

Tippit Fund Approaches Half Million

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Mrs. J. D. Tippit has received almost half a million dollars in 43 days. But she says she wants to live as she did when her husband made just over $100 a week.

The slight, dark-haired woman has sought privacy since her husband was slain as he tried to arrest President Kennedy's accused assassin.

"There's really nothing I can say," said the Dallas widow. "My children and I plan to stay here in the same house, and try to live as normally as possible."

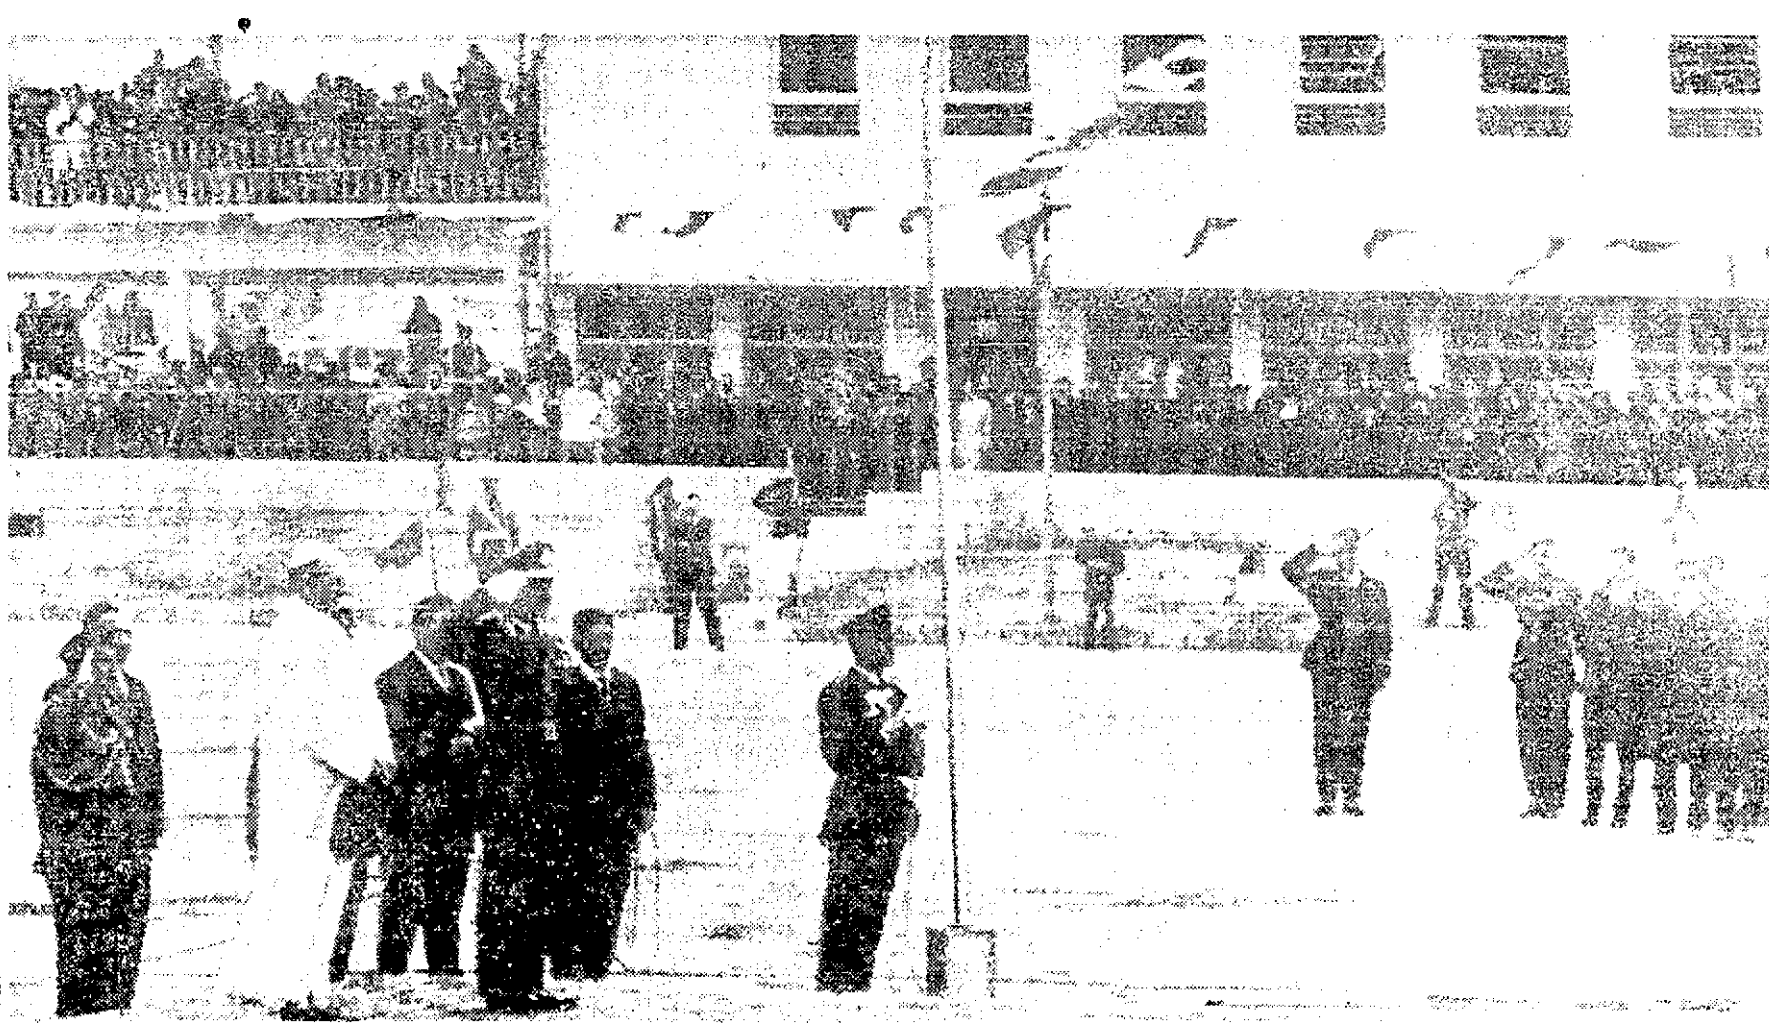

Outwardly, Mrs. Tippit pays no attention to the day-to-day count of donations to a fund for her and her children—Charles, 13; Brenda Kay, 10, and Curtis Glen, 5.

"She doesn't call us. I'm quite sure she probably reads the totals in the newspapers," said Police Lt. Verne Hipskind.

Funds for Mrs. Tippit mounted to $498,110 Friday.

Because contributions to Mrs. Tippit are considered gifts, they are not taxable. A bank official has estimated that investment of half a million dollars in a diversified trust fund would yield an annual income of $18,000 to $20,000—about triple Tippit's salary.

Doggie and Mole Game Gives Pet Needed Exercise, Fun

BY CAPPY DICK

"Doggie and the Mole" is a "chase game" to play with your pet dog to provide him with good exercise.

You will need an old carpet or other large pieces of fabric that can be spread out on the playroom or basement floor as in Figure 1.

You will also need an object about the size of a shoe (but don't use a shoe because the dog might chew it up if he gets a chance). Tie this object to the center of a length of rope as in Figure 2.

Place the object beneath the middle of the carpet, with the ends of the rope extending to the sides.

One player must take hold of one end of the rope and another player must grasp the other end (Figure 1). Call your dog and, as he approaches, pull the rope from one side and then the other to move the hidden object just enough to attract his attention and curiosity.

Continue to move the object from one side to the other. Sooner or later the dog will dive for it, possibly thinking it is a mole or a rabbit. As he chases from one side of the carpet to the other, intent on catching the object, he will get a lot of good exercise and will provide all who are watching with a lot of entertainment. Finally, let him see what the object really is.

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

IN FOMENTING REVOLUTIONS, ONLY MEN OF ACTION COUNT!

TRUE ☐ FALSE ☐

False. Revolutions usually start with dissatisfaction with the present, and here the men of words are decisive. Words are like an artillery barrage—they soften up the position so they can be more easily taken. The main job of the men of words is to discredit the present. They point out all the evils and faults that need correction when the child is three years of age. Some eye defects can be detected when the child is six years of age. This can move in with little opposition and take over, but only after the men of words have done their job of paving the way, so to speak.

Wait until your child is in school before getting his eyes examined.

Good — Bad —

Bad. The National Society for the Prevention of Blindness says that ideally every child's eyes should be examined at birth and annually thereafter, but definitely no later than the child is three years of age. When they are not treated before the child is six years of age, this is one reason why your doctor examines your children's eyes routinely.

Urban Team Purpose to Help Avoid Pitfalls

Group Tries to Encourage, Support Continuing Education in Its Area

MENASHA—One of the main objectives of the Urban Planning team of the University of Wisconsin-Fox Valley Center, is to "help avoid the pitfalls that other cities have fallen heir to during their expanding years," Dr. Glenn Jensen told Economics Club members Friday.

The all-teacher team was created by the university to bring new knowledge to urban communities as an experiment in three state areas: Milwaukee, a metropolitan area, Columbia County, a rural area, and the Fox Valley, an expanding urban area.

The Ford Foundation, financing the team, underwrites the Residences Along Bay Alarm State Agency

Resource Department Concerned Over Growing Number of Unsewered Cottages

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — A state agency is viewing with alarm the rapid residential development in the unincorporated areas on the Green Bay shores south of Marinette and Sturgeon Bay.

The State Department of Resource Development says there now are nearly 3,000 unsewered cottages and rural dwellings in that area, and they probably are contributing to the pollution problems of the bay.

The comment was contained in the sweeping report delivered Friday by the agency to Gov. John W. Reynolds which discussed the variety of pollution problems of Lake Michigan and its tributary waters and urged strong new governmental action to combat them.

On the problem of residential development without sewage facilities, the report urged better control of land subdivisions by health authorities and the grant of power to the State Department of Health to order the formation of sanitary districts in such neighborhoods of relatively intensive settlement.

Scattered Development
The report said there is some scattered cottage development along the entire shore of Lake Michigan, but in most counties it is thin enough to permit safe dilution of the resulting wastes.

The document said "it is suspected" that bacterial pollution is a problem in Door County, but added that the precise information is yet available.

The figure of 3,000 unsewered cottages and dwellings was taken from a survey made by the northeastern district engineer of the State Department of Health, but it added that the amount of pollution can only be determined by actual and individual inspections of each dwelling.

The Neenah-Menasha Boys Brigade sponsored a free lesson for those who received new fire arms for Christmas Thursday night at the Brigade Building in Neenah. Above Richard Zeumer, Neenah, a National Rifle Association instructor, gave the group a lecture on how

Man Jailed for 'Cash Refund' Operations

W. J. Elliott Found Guilty of Theft, Gets 4-Month Term

A Menasha man who drew the suspicions of department store personnel when he returned items for refund several times without providing sales slips was sentenced to four months in the county jail for theft of a sport coat and pair of pants.

Wayne J. Elliott, 32, 500½ Fifth St., was charged with theft from the Treasure Island Department Store and was found guilty after a trial in Outagamie County Court Branch 2. He had pleaded innocent Nov. 15.

Authorities said with the arrest of Elliott that a potential "refund for cash" operation in the Fox River Valley had been broken up. Elliott has admitted he received refunds for clothing 11 times at Treasure Island. An investigation by Sheriff Lt. Jack Frenzl showed that Elliott, using several alias first names, had received 11 cash refunds for merchandise at the Shopko Department Store in Green Bay. He failed to produce sales slips for any of the refunds.

Asked to Return Elliott was tripped up Oct. 1 when a refund clerk, Mrs. Edna Wessing, at Treasure Island, recalled giving refunds to Elliott "four or five times". Mrs. Wessing testified that Elliott had no sales slips at any time.

On Oct. 1, Mrs. Wessing asked that Elliott return Oct. 3 for the cash refund for a sport coat and pants totaling $29. Elliott had told Mrs. Wessing he bought the items Sept. 28 but that they were "the wrong style."

Mrs. Wessing kept the merchandise and turned them over to the store manager. Sheriff authorities were notified and an investigation was started.

Auto Accident Elliott was involved in an automobile accident before Oct. 3 and did not return for the refund. As a result of the accident, he was charged and convicted of two traffic violations and with using a false name to obtain a driver's license. He is serving jail sentences for the violations.

Elliott testified he had purchased the sport coat on Sept. 12 and had bought the pants "on or about Sept. 28." He said he could not recall the exact date.

Store personnel had testified that no sport coat or pants combination had been purchased on Sept. 28, the day Elliott had indicated to Mrs. Wessing he had bought the items.

Farmers Protest Discharge Of Supplier for Affiliation With National Organization

BY DOUGLAS KOPLIEN

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

KIEL — A demonstration was staged at the Lake to Lake Dairy Cooperative here at 11:30 a.m. Friday by a group of farmers demanding "freedom" for a discharged member of the cooperative.

The group called "Freedom for Frank Schwoerer Committee" challenged Truman Torgerson, general manager of the cooperative to a debate.

According to Martin Salm Sr., 3, Chilton, spokesman for the National Farmer's Organization, Schwoerer's contract with the cooperative was cancelled because of NFO affiliations.

Dan Jindra, Lake to Lake field supervisor, stated Schwoerer, a Valders farmer, was openly working against the cooperative and was discharged because of it. Jindra said the cooperative is opposed to the NFO because its goals and objectives were not economically sound. The dairy plans to protect its members against any such opposition, Jindra stated.

Group Was 'Orderly'

The group of about 100 persons was orderly Jindra said. All that was done, according to Jindra, was the displaying of signs, banners and placards. Jindra acted on behalf of the dairy in the absence of Torgerson.

Over a year ago, the dairy had stated its position in respect to the NFO. They expect their employees to be loyal to the cooperative, Jindra said. The NFO has challenged Torgerson to a debate concerning the objective of the organizations and no answer has been received, according to Salm.

Freedom "Stinted" The committee for Schwoerer feels the freedom of the farmer has been stinted by the action of the cooperative, Salm said. The farmers own the cooperative and they should be able to haul their milk to it, he stated.

Salm said he believes if nothing is done it will not be long before they will even dictate which church the farmers should attend. "They are members and if they can't haul their milk to their own plant there is something wrong," he declared.

Persons participating in the demonstration were not members of the cooperative according to Jindra. None were familiar to him, he said.

30-Car Cavalcade Salm, on the other hand, stated members of the dairy, as well as individual farmers took part in the demonstration. Salm did not take part, although he was asked if he approved as a representative of the NFO. The main reason for the 30 car cavalcade he said, was to show the dairy they thought their freedom was being imposed upon.

After completing their demonstration at Kiel they moved to the general manager's office in Manitowish.

This could be the first sale to Russia since Soviet leaders indicated last fall they would like to buy U.S. wheat.

The department said it had agreed to a request by Continental that details of the application, including the destination of the wheat and the terms of the subsidy, be withheld until late today.

Destined for Russia Nevertheless, high department sources said they definitely understood that the wheat will be sold to the Soviet Union. Among details that were disclosed are these:

The Agriculture Department will sell the wheat from its surplus stocks to Continental at $2.50 a bushel for No. 2 Hard Amber Durum. F.O.B. the East Coast.

Continental Subsidy Then, upon export of the wheat, Continental will get a subsidy of 72 cents a bushel on half of the wheat, to be shipped during January and February, and 73 cents on the remainder, to be shipped during March and April.

The total subsidy will be about $9,314,000. For years the government has paid subsidies on exports of wheat because the domestic price, due to price support programs, is higher than the world price.

To Your Good Health

Breath-Holding Youths Could Have Anemia

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
Dear Dr. Molner: When my five-year-old son is particularly upset or hurt, he cries until his breath leaves him and he passes out. This has been a problem since he was 14 months old. It doesn't happen very often but it concerns me. I don't think it is a bid for attention since he has fallen down and done the same thing while playing alone.

Dr. Molner

MRS. J. C. Breath-holding is not an unusual method youngsters use to express their displeasure. Violent crying can precede breath-holding.

The temporary cessation of breathing causes unconsciousness—and as soon as that occurs, the child relieves his automatic reflexes take command again, and the brief unconsciousness ends with the first breath.

Such attacks usually occur in the first couple of years, and not often after five.

One would suspect that there is some violent emotional factor in the background, maybe an overactive sense of frustration, a hidden fear of something, or the expression of extreme temper. I don't know, but these are possibilities and you may want to keep this in mind and perhaps have some psychiatric guidance if matters persist. That is to say, pain from a fall or whatever may trigger some pent-up emotional pressures within the child.

Meantime, here's something to investigate. A recent report discloses that 25 per cent of children with breath-holding spells were found to have anemia. This would intensify the lack of oxygen reaching the brain and thus make unconsciousness come that much sooner. You might have your doctor check for this, just in case. A calcium deficiency may also be present.

Children tend to outgrow breath-holding in time, but correction of anemia and/or calcium deficiency, if present, may hasten the improvement.

Wants Book

Dear Dr. Molner: Here's five cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope for a copy of "Lost Secret of Reducing." How can I get rid of fat tummy and big butt? I am 73, weigh 150, and am 5 feet 6.

MRS. B. B. Madam, I admire your directness if not your figure. At 73, and 150 pounds, you aren't going to change very much, but if you shed a few pounds, you can be rather sure that they will come off your fat tummy and your oversized—what was your word? Lose a few pounds and you'll feel (and look) better, but don't expect any miracles.

Dear Dr. Molner: How can androgen, the male sex hormone, be obtained? Please prove to a 17-year-old that this drug will develop him sexually.

S. G. S. Son, you're all mixed up. First androgen (along with other important hormones, not to mention a great many other medicines) can't be obtained except by prescription—meaning an order from a doctor who has examined you and will take the responsibility of saying in writing that this is what you need.

Second, I can't "prove" that androgen will develop you "sexually," because I don't know what ails you. Quit thinking that you can go buy a medicine that will cure whatever you think ails you. If medical care were that easy, our problems would be simpler. The hard part is diagnosis—finding out what your problem really is. So go to a responsible physician, describe your troubles, let him tell you what to do.

Dear Dr. Molner: Many men have quit wearing hats, winter or summer. Is this harmful or beneficial? I see many bald heads with the scalps sun-tanned.

R.B.D. All I can say, sir, is that going hatless is harmful to the hat industry. I don't think there is much of a health problem involved—except that in hot weather the shade of a hat is helpful.

"Vitamin starvation" is possible even if you eat a lot. In order to check your diet to make sure you are getting necessary nourishment, write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper for a copy of the pamphlet, "Vitamins—The Alphabet of Health." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

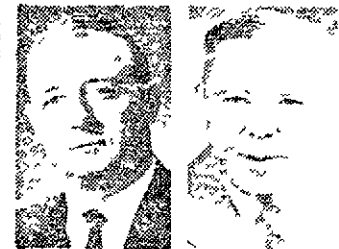

Dr. Molner is always glad to hear from his readers, and whenever possible he uses their questions in his column, but because of the tremendous volume of mail received daily, he cannot answer individual letters.

'Preference Rule' Headed for Court

Veterans Get Special Treatment In Wisconsin Civil Service System

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON—The application of the veterans' preference rule in state employment is headed for the first court test in more than half a century since the enactment of the Wisconsin civil service law.

Attorneys for a defeated candidate for the position of chief warden of the State Conservation Department have indicated that they will challenge in the courts the recent decision of the State Board of Personnel upholding the rule as it has been applied since the last legislation on the subject more than 25 years ago.

Ask Stronger Anti-Secrecy Legislation

Press Association Supports Companion Rules in Wisconsin

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The manager of the Wisconsin Press Association has suggested companion ordinances in Wisconsin cities and villages as a means of strengthening compliance with the state's famed anti-secrecy law of 1959.

Carl Zielke of the organization of weekly newspapers cited with approval the enactment of a Madison city ordinance which guarantees open meetings of governing units of the capital city government.

He also noted that the Madison City Council and the Dane County Board now officially list all forthcoming meetings of committees, boards and similar groups, in the interest of fullest public information on local government affairs.

Anti-Secrecy Law
Zielke commented on the operations of the Wisconsin state anti-secrecy law, which he praised, but suggested the possibility of several amendments including one that would provide penalties for violations.

He said it also may be wise to propose an amendment that would invalidate any governmental regulation or ordinance that was adopted in closed session.

The association executive commented in refutation of some newspaper trade opinion in other parts of the country holding that anti-secrecy laws tend to prompt so-called "executive sessions" of governmental agencies.

Two Drivers Fined For Causing Mishaps

LITTLE CHUTE — Two motorists involved in minor accidents during December were fined $10 by Anton Jansen, municipal justice Thursday.

Mrs. Marge Schiebel, 34, 217 Franklin St., Little Chute, was charged with failure to stop for an arterial and Raphael P. Peters, 37, 524 McKinley St., Little Chute, was charged with inattentive driving.

Today's Deaths

Albert J. Peterson, 77, route 3, Waupaca.
Mrs. Stella E. Pears, 79, route 2, Ogdensburg.
Mrs. John Vanden Broek, 69, 1328 S. Madison St.
Mrs. Meta Steenbock, 76, route 2, Clintonville.

Deaths Elsewhere

George B. Wanek Sr., 73, 1124 S. Tullah Ave., at Altura, Minn.
Miss Eda Roemer, at Oconomowoc.

The appellant is Kenneth Beghin, now a department employee, who insists that he was illegally rejected because of an improper use of veterans' credit in favor of his competitors.

The issue is whether the five and ten points of credit for service veterans and disabled veterans can be applied at the end of the civil service examination process, or as a matter of qualifying a candidate after one phase of the testing to make him eligible for the remainder.

Only Two Passed
In the disputed examination, Beghin and six other candidates wrote written examinations. Only Beghin and one other got the required passing score in the written test. But three others were permitted to continue into the oral examinations, because the Bureau of Personnel added their veterans' preference points to nullify their failures in the written competition. Beghin claims such a use of the veterans' credit is unconstitutional and that it had the result of depriving him of the job.

Walter Zelinske, recently appointed chief warden, was one of the candidates thus advanced successfully to the oral examinations.

In the findings of the State Board of Personnel, which heard an appeal from the decision of the personnel bureau, Chairman John Shiels wrote that the case was a close one, but that the board felt it had an obligation to uphold the rules of the bureau as they have been applied for many years without challenge. It is the function of the courts to rule on the constitutional validity of the law the bureau has interpreted, he said.

The case has aroused widespread interest in civil service administrative circles, as one of the few of its kind ever raised in the country. No such court test has ever been attempted in Wisconsin, although the state has had some form of veterans' preference since 1905.

In that year the first law requiring a merit system of testing for state workers gave preference to veterans of the Civil War.

Until 26 years ago, Shiels recalled, the veterans' preference rule was qualified to provide that all candidates should attain the "minimum grade." The deletion of that qualification, the personnel board concluded, intended that the veterans' points could be added to the credits of a candidate at any stage of the examination process.

State Listeners' League Provides Loan Units to Foster Interest in Programs explained William Cherkasky, a Appleton member.

The radio may be borrowed from the Appleton library for a period of four weeks. The library will keep a reserve list for it. An overdue fine of 10 cents per day will be charged.

Transmitter Map
A map on the side of the radio shows the location of transmitters for the state radio network.

Printed postcards to be returned to State Radio Listeners are given to persons who borrow the radio. The card asks information on the quality of state radio reception, the type of programs the person enjoyed most, whether he used the radio most during the day or at night, and whether he plans to purchase an FM radio after hearing the programs.

The State Radio Listeners' League was started about 15 years ago. It serves as a lobbying organization for the state radio network, and for FM radio, Cherkasky said.

Two major goals are a seven-day broadcasting schedule for WHA, the state radio station, and provision of another transmitter for the state network in Door County, he said. WHA formerly broadcast seven days a week and later at night, but it has been cut down to six days a week now.

Pope to Retrace Path Taken By Christ in the Holy Land

Many Wondrous Events Marked The Strange Career of Jesus

BY GEORGE W. CORNELL
JERUSALEM, Jordan Sector (AP)—An individual, and the path he walked, laid the foundation of Christianity.
Pope Paul VI, on his unprecedented journey to the Holy Land this weekend, plans to retrace the topography of that path—the ground traversed by Jesus Christ.
Jesus, a young Jewish teacher slain at 33, had a swift, strange career—punctuated by extraordinary and wondrous events.
Yet the events occurred in ordinary human settings, in the towns, along the trails and lake-ahead—and where Pope Paul, too, will pray.

The Pope also will walk the sad, winding route that Jesus followed from the Roman seat of judgment to the traditional site of the Hill of the Skull (Golgotha) where He was crucified and entombed.
The route now is called the "Via Dolorosa"—the Way of Sorrows.
It begins at the Lithostrotos.

shores at the eastern end of the Mediterranean.
The spots which Pope Paul will visit formed the earthly stage on which 2,000 years of history have unfolded.

Saturday evening, on his first day here, the Pope is expected to spend an hour in the Garden of Gethsemane. There Jesus held his last lonely vigil before his arrest and death.
Jesus, on His way there after the Last Supper with His apostles or during it, delivered His final discourse, foretelling His death, warning of persecutions, urging love and promising that His spiritual presence would remain.

An objective of the Pope's trip here is to pray, as did his Lord, for Christian unity.
A rough, bare white rock, which today protrudes inside a dim-lit church, is said to be the place where Jesus prayed and steeled Himself for His ordeal.

the ancient paved square where the Roman governor, Pilate, held court when Jesus was brought there, charged with blasphemy and claiming a divine mantle of kingship.
Along the old city's narrow, cobblestone streets, tables and monuments mark the incidents of the melancholy march. These are called "stations of the Cross." Pope Paul will follow the same course.
The Church of the Holy Sepulcher is a somber, labyrinthine sanctuary of candlelit chambers, stone stairways, balconies, alcoves, columns and altars, almost always astir with moving figures, chanting voices and clouds of incense.

Ancient Rite
Here Saturday afternoon, Pope Paul is scheduled to celebrate a Mass—the ancient rite commemorating Christ's self-sacrifice for man, and also His victory over death.

Inside the church, about 14 feet below the Crucifixion platform, is a traditional place of burial.
On his second day here, Sunday, the Pope will cross the border into Galilee to visit Nazareth, the country town where Jesus grew up, the slope beside the lake where Jesus delivered the sermon on the Mount and also Mount Tabor, where Jesus was transfigured before the eyes of three apostles.

Returning to Jerusalem, he visits Bethlehem next day, on Monday.

Gifts to Oswald Family Proof Faith Personal
DALLAS (AP)—Dr. K. Owen White of Houston, president of the Southern Baptist Convention, says gifts to the family of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald "would be a wonderful opportunity to demonstrate the fact that our faith is warm and personal."

Dr. White's plea was published Thursday by the Standard, official newspaper of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. He is pastor of Houston's First Baptist Church.

The Oswald family "not only must face life with a stigma they did not bring on themselves, but they must do so without many relatives or friends on whom they can depend for help," Dr. White said. The Standard said about $30,000 has been contributed to Oswald's family in contrast to nearly one-half million dollars donated to the family of slain Dallas Policeman J.D. Tippit, killed shortly after Kennedy's assassination. Oswald, charged with both the Tippit and Kennedy slayings, was shot to death by Dallas night club operator Jack Ruby.

Plan Demonstrations Against Segregation
ATLANTA (AP)—Representatives of nine civil rights organizations have voted to stage massive street demonstrations to protest segregation in Atlanta but have not set a date.

The groups organized a coalition called the Atlanta Summit Leadership Conference last October in an effort to achieve desegregation through negotiation. Meetings were held with city officials and business leaders.

"I'm disappointed that this conference method has not received a more positive response from white community leaders," said Clarence Coleman of the National Urban League.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

Arriving in Japan from her native New Hampshire in 1909 with three gingham dresses and a knife, fork and spoon, Mabel Francis set out to build a mission for the Christian and Missionary Alliance. She had great faith but no knowledge even of the Japanese language.

During World War II, her faith decreed that she stay at her post, although she knew that it would mean imprisonment. Both she and her sister, who had joined her, served as best they could in prison, caring for the ill and instilling hope. Food became scarce and conditions became worse, but they never regretted their decision. At the war's end, they were able to continue their much needed work as soon as they were released.

For her long years of service, Miss Francis received from the Japanese Government in 1962, the highest award made to civilians in that country. At 83, still working at her missionary post in Hiroshima with no thought of retiring, Miss Francis says, "I haven't finished all my work yet."

Where Pope Visits

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (AP)—The hallowed places that Pope Paul VI will visit Sunday as a pilgrim in Israel resound with contrasting echoes from the past—the gentle preaching of Christ and the din of countless battles.

The very spot where the Pope will cross into Israel from Jordan was the scene of so much bloody fighting that it became known as a symbol of war—Armageddon. Christian tradition says this also is the great symbolic battlefield where the final struggle between good and evil will be fought.

Egyptian and Canaanite, Israelite and Philistine, Assyrian, Greek, Roman and Crusader shed blood on the land the Pope will visit on his unprecedented tour.

Jordan contains the shrines where Christ was born and died. Israel has places where he

Contrasting Echoes Reverberate From Hallowed Ground of Israel

as a young man and where he began his teachings.
Papal Caravan
The Papal caravan arrives at the Jordanian-Israeli frontier at 8:30 a.m. after driving from the Jordanian Jerusalem on the second day of the Pope's 3-day tour. The border, once marked by a simple "no crossing" sign and an iron roadblock, is getting a new sentry post and flagpole in honor of the Pope's visit.

Israeli President Zalman Shazar will welcome the Papal party in the courtyard of a museum at an excavation site. After a 20-minute halt the motorcade crosses the fertile Jezreel Valley into the hills of Galilee and to the town of Nazareth.

Here, scripture says, the Angel of the Lord appeared before Mary to herald Jesus' birth. The Pope will spend about an hour and a quarter at the Church of Annunciation now being constructed over the ruins of the earlier Crusader and Franciscan Churches.

Ironically, Nazareth, venerated by the world's Christians, is the biggest center of Israeli's small Communist party.

Past the tiny Arabic village of Cana, where the Bible says Jesus performed his first miracle of turning water into wine, the Papal party turns to the south and ascends a narrow twisting road to the top of Mt. Tabor.

Christian tradition says Christ was transfigured here before three of his disciples. A Franciscan and an orthodox church and convent are clustered on the 1843-foot summit.

The Pope will have an excellent view of the valley known in Biblical times as the Plain of Esdrelon. Perhaps he will envisage the ghosts of mighty armies thundering across the brown and green fields below.

It was here that Barak smote the Canaanites and Saul saw his armies routed and his sons slain.

Turn ing from the days of the Old Testament, Pope Paul descends into Galilee—where Christ recruited His first followers. Simon called Peter and Andrew, as "fishers of men." The Sea of Galilee, also known as Lake Tiberias but called Kinneret by the Israelis, is 682 feet below sea level.

Sermon On The Mount
It was here that Christ preached His Sermon on the Mount. He taught at a synagogue at the crossroad town of Capernaum and performed the miracle of the loaves and fishes.

Pope Paul's visit to Tabgha, in upper Galilee, is one of the most important stopovers on the tour.

At a small Sanctuary of Primacy, built over a huge rock, the Pope will see the very foundation on which Papacy is built. For her, the Bible says, the resurrected Jesus told Peter to "Feed my Sheep," thus passing on the church leadership to St. Peter.

The Pope will have lunch on the Mount of Beatitudes where Christ preached "Blessed are the poor in spirit—for theirs is the kingdom of heaven... Blessed are the meek—for they shall inherit the earth... Blessed are the peacemakers—for they shall be called the children of God."

In modern times the Sermon on the Mount is occasionally drowned out by gunfire reverberating across the lake as Israelis and Syrians engage in border clashes.

From Galilee the Papal motorcade heads toward Israeli Jerusalem, across the Plains of Sharon, over the River Yarkon into Judea.

Skirting Tel Aviv, Israel's largest city, the caravan climbs into the hills of Judea. The motorcade will pass rusted skeletons of trucks and cars destroyed by the Arabs in 1948 in the Israeli War of Independence.

Tree-lined Highway
Pungent pines and towering cypresses line the highway which brings the motorcade to Israel's capital Jerusalem.

The Pope will pass through the town to Mt. Zion where he will visit the Hall of the Last Supper and the Church of the Dormition where tradition says Mary fell into eternal sleep.

The last leg of the 12-hour tour carries the Pope to the Mandelbaum Gate, where he will cross back into Jordanian Jerusalem—a round trip to a city divided.

Candle-Lighted Bistro Sponsored by a Church

Young Adults Gather in Coffee House
To Discuss a Wide Range of Subjects

BY DALE NELSON
SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — "Where," asked the young doctor, "can I ask an honest question about Christianity in this church?"

The question started the Rev. William H. Creevey thinking. Where indeed?

The answer the young Presbyterian minister and some of his flock came up with is a far cry from the traditional church ice cream social.

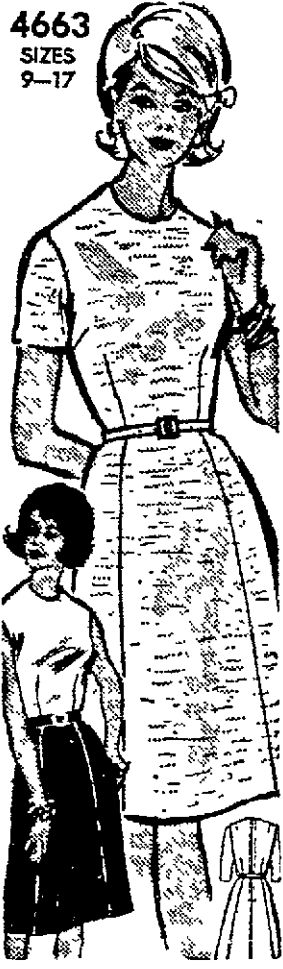

It's Le Rapport, a candle-light coffee house featuring discussions ranging from political philosophy to the latest sexy Italian movie.

Subject matter was quickly expanded. On a recent weekend, there were scenes from a play about Joan of Arc, "The Lark," a discussion of "Boccaccio '70," a racy Italian film playing next door, and a session on liberalism and conservatism.

On the latter evening, Dr. Giovanni Costigan of the University of Washington History Department gave a 20-minute talk. Then people started asking questions and making observations. It was midnight when the discussion broke up.

Shenwold Save High Card for Finesse

When you take an ordinary finesse you hope to win it, but in the case of a double finesse you expect to lose the first trick. You must therefore do some planning for the second finesse—the one you expect to win.

the king, and South must refuse the first and second heart tricks. After winning the third heart, South gets to work on the spades, hoping to win three spade tricks. South must lead a low spade from his hand, finessing with dummy's ten.

As expected, East wins with the queen of spades. East looks around rather desperately for a safe return and finally decides upon a diamond in the hope that this will give South nothing he couldn't get for himself.

Runs Diamonds
This hope is well-founded, and South runs his four diamond tricks. Now he is ready to resume playing the spades.

Since South has played the spades properly he is in position to lead the nine of spades. If West plays low, the nine will hold the trick, and South can lead his last spade for another finesse. If West covers the nine of spades, dummy can win three spade tricks without further trouble.

Either way, South makes three spade tricks and his contract. If South had wasted the nine of spades by leading it on the first spade trick, he would be unable to hold the lead in his own hand on the second spade trick. He would have to win the second spade trick in dummy and would be unable to get back to his own hand for another spade finesse.

Daily Question
Partner opens with one spade, and the next player passes. You hold: S 9 5 2 H A 6 2 D K 10 9 8 C 10 7 4. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one no trump. Your diamonds are biddable only if you can show them at the level of one. Your hand is not strong enough for a response of two in a suit.

Your Problems

Let 'Light of Life' Go Out; Find New Flame to Fill Void

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: The man I loved and trusted and invested three whole years in took his ring back and broke our engagement last night.

The trouble was started by Kenny's best friend whom I never liked. This friend resented me from the beginning because after I came into the picture Kenny didn't pal around with him "like old times." At first this friend tried to horn in and make it a threesome, but when I wouldn't tolerate it, he began his dirty work.

Landers

A few days ago he told Kenny a vicious lie about me. When I tried to explain to Kenny that there was no truth in the story he said, "I'm sorry, but one of you is lying and I think it is you."

Please tell me how to get Kenny back. I am heart sick. This is all so unfair. — Blue Blue Nights

Dear Blue: You need Kenny like a giraffe needs a strep throat. A guy who would have so little confidence in his girl is not worth worrying about.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am writing about the 14-year-old neighbor girl who baked the birthday cake for the man next door and gave him a nice big birthday kiss in front of everybody.

Our daughter is 14 years old and could pass for 18 any day. If I ever caught her kissing the man next door whether it was his birthday or the 4th of July, I'd give her a crack she'd never forget. Our son is 15 and he'd better not kiss the neighbor lady either.

TAFFY'S TIPS

By Dolly Martin

Adopt a Kitten
Cats are easy to train, to care for and gratifying to own. So, if your mother will let you adopt one look over these few pointers before carrying the kitten home.

A kitten is usually weaned when she is about a month to six weeks old.

B A kitten's stomach at this age is about the size of a walnut, so feed her small portions four or five times a day.

C Moistened food in milk and feed the kitten. If fresh milk does not seem to agree with her, use water instead.

D Keep clean fresh water on hand at all times.

E Never bathe your kitten unless in an emergency. But gently brush her occasionally.

F Never put collars or ribbon around her neck.

G Make a bed from a cardboard box and line it with a comfy cushion or soft cloth.

H No license is needed for cats.

all my notions about how old kids are before they get ideas. I think it's time you woke up and smelled the coffee, Old Girl.

With It
Dear With: Just what it is you're "with" I'm not sure, but I suspect you have a fairly low opinion of most young people.

A 14-year-old neighbor girl who bakes a cake and bestows a birthday kiss in the presence of a neighbor's family is no Lolita in my book. The advice stands.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several months ago my husband and I were invited to a lovely supper party in the home of a business associate. Now I would like to reciprocate.

I want to call the person who invited us first and plan the party around her and her husband. What if she says they have another engagement for the evening I suggest? Should I ask her about the following weekend, or should I ask her to call me when she has a free Friday or Saturday evening?

I know you do not conduct an etiquette column, but I believe this question comes under the heading of common sense rather than manners, and I'd appreciate your direction. — New Hostess

Dear Hostess: If the woman is busy on the date you suggest, it would be perfectly all right to ask her for an evening the following weekend.

If, however, she's busy then, tell her you will telephone her at a later date. It would be presumptuous of you to ask her to call you when she has a free date.

Chicago Visit
BLACK CREEK — Mr. and Mrs. Leroy McGlin and their son, James, returned from Chicago where they visited their son Bruce.

HINTS FROM HELOISE

Dear Heloise:

I am a fifteen-year-old teenager. I wear white socks. Naturally, I walk around the house stocking-footed. Within an hour or so my socks are black on the bottom.

My mother does not like this. She said she could never get them clean and truly she couldn't until I made a little discovery (after she made me wash my own!).

I tried putting the socks in a basin of hot suds and adding bleach to it but it still did not get the bottoms clean.

So after the socks were thoroughly wet I laid them on the drainboard and picked up my mother's scouring powder (the type which says "contains bleach") and sprinkled some of it on the bottom of the socks.

Then I put a little water on the socks, picked up the scrub brush and scrubbed the scouring powder into the fibers.

Then I left the socks on the drainboard for about thirty minutes.

Do you know that when I put those socks back in the sink with some hot water and let them soak a few minutes and then scrubbed them between my hands with my fists that the black was gone?

Now I dampen and soak my socks with the scrubbing powder and throw them in with Mother's tub of white clothes. Just a slight soak for 20 minutes in the scouring powder sure fixes them.

And say, teen-agers, it's far easier to pull off your white socks and walk around barefooted and wash your feet than it is to have to wash your own socks.

Dear Heloise: My husband taught me the best way to run a home-type buffer when waxing highly-polished floors:

Never go around in circles.

This causes streaks.

Never go up and down as this causes streaks, also.

Always run the buffer from left to right or side to side.

After the floor has been polished this way first you can then run the buffer any direction you see fit and you will never have a streak.

Dear Folks: I didn't know this myself until I tried it. Bemerie is absolutely right.

Most amazing thing I've ever seen.

Dear Heloise: I would like to send a big bunch of flowers to the person who sent in the hint to you about using peanut butter to get chewing gum out of little girls' hair! I have four girls and three of them have long hair.

It has been a real lifesaver to me.

All we said was that when chewing gum is stuck in a child's hair, don't take to the scissors.

Take some peanut butter, put it between your fingers and massage it into the strand of hair. Then take a facial tissue and pull the glob of chewing gum down the hair strands and all of the chewing gum will come out with no need of scissors.

LETTER OF LAUGHTER 2

Dear Heloise: First off I must tell you of a little "pun" my husband made.

I was doing something—don't remember just what now—that I had read about in your column and he asked me where I got the idea and I told him: "Heloise!"

So he promptly came back with "Who in the 'Heloise' is running this house?"

Wisconsin Needs a Federal Judge

When the first session of the 88th Congress ended, the nomination of David Rabinovitz as federal judge for the western district of Wisconsin died with it.

Ever since the appointment was made last September, opposition to Rabinovitz has mounted. He was opposed by many Democrats in Wisconsin even before the appointment. Later the nomination was opposed by the American Bar Association and by a poll of attorneys in Wisconsin. His selection was too obviously only political in justification.

Highway Planning Urgent

Come July 1, 1965, some Wisconsin communities may be embarrassed financially when it comes to federal aid for highway construction.

The reason: They failed to develop required transportation planning under terms of the 1962 Federal-Aid Highway Act.

Appleton is fortunate that the Common Council saw fit to approve preparation of a comprehensive plan for the entire city, a phase of which includes a complete transportation and roads survey as required by the federal government.

No Solomon on Cyprus

The current upheaval on the tiny island of Cyprus presents a problem that only a Solomon could adjudicate. There are no Solomons on Cyprus and so far none has been found either in NATO headquarters or the United Nations Security Council, two units seriously concerned about the fracas.

When Cyprus finally won independence in 1960, its constitution was drawn so as to protect the minority Turks from the majority Greeks. The ratio is about 6 to 1. The president is to be Greek but the vice president a Turk. The Turks have virtually a veto power over important legislation and are to have 30 per cent of the appointed government officials. Such checks and balances might work out if the Turks and Greeks trusted each other or if the welfare of Cyprus were the primary objective. But the residents of Cyprus are Greeks or Turks first and Cypriots second. The Greek majority has made no secret of its wishes for eventual union with Greece itself.

President Archbishop Makarios made some suggestions to amend the constitu-

But this does not solve the main problem. This bench has been vacant since the death of Judge Patrick T. Stone almost a year ago. The judicial business of the federal government in that section of Wisconsin demands the prompt appointment by President Johnson of a man whom the Senate will confirm.

It remains to be seen if Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy will maintain his stubborn support of Rabinovitz when Congress reconvenes, or whether he has the welfare of the federal judiciary in mind and will recommend a new candidate.

Every year municipalities receive thousands of dollars for highway and road construction, plus maintenance, from state and federal agencies.

If the Fox Cities region and other areas in the Fox Valley hope to achieve expressway goals, it might be well for municipalities and units of government involved to get to work on transportation surveys.

Federal Highway Administrator Rex M. Whitton has urged "high gear" action now, warning that urban projects can't be approved after July 1, 1965, unless state-local planning processes are underway.

tion and that was the trigger for Turkish fears to burst wide open. Turkey itself sent jet planes to buzz the island. The police could not maintain order because they fought among themselves. And the 650 Turkish regulars and 850 Greek regulars finally came to bayonet point. The treatment of Turkish hostages lent no confidence that the minority would be protected under a looser constitution. And Turkish terrorists gave no hope to any Greeks who wanted to live in peace.

All that keeps an uneasy truce on the island is 10,000 British troops. But Makarios declares his island cannot have true independence and sovereignty until the treaties in which England, Greece and Turkey guarantee the island's freedom are repealed. But quite obviously the Cypriots are not capable of maintaining peace unless the minority is wiped out.

If the United Nations can work out a solution to the hatreds and antagonisms born of years of conflict, it will have justified its existence. But no blueprint for this type of peaceful coexistence has yet been drawn.

Alexander's Legacy - A Business Creed

The late John E. Alexander, who was chairman of the board of Nekoosa-Edwards Paper Co. at Port Edwards, left a legacy of philanthropy seldom equalled by any man who lived out his life in a small community.

Alexander and his father before him are well-known in their Wood County communities for their donations to worthwhile projects and institutions, including Lawrence College, and their devotion to civic obligations. Alexander Gymnasium at Lawrence is named for the family.

However, he left another lesser-known legacy, a business creed which was humanitarian and fair to owners and labor alike and might well be followed by any man.

His credo can probably be summarized in his own words when he outlined the five basic principles of his philosophy:

"We believe that our first responsibility is to everyone who uses our products. Our products must always be of the highest quality . . . our merchants must make a fair profit.

"Our second responsibility is to those who work with us—the men and women in our plants and offices. They must have a sense of security in their jobs. Wages must be fair and adequate, management just, hours reasonable, and working conditions clean and orderly. Supervisors must be qualified and fair-minded. There must be opportunity for advancement for those qualified, and each person must be considered an individual standing on his own dignity and merit.

"Our third responsibility is to our management. Our executives must be persons of talent, education, experience and ability. They must be persons of common sense and full understanding.

"Our fourth responsibility is to the communities in which we live. We must be a good citizen, support good works and charity and bear our fair share of taxes. We must maintain in good order the property we are privileged to use. We must participate in promotion of civic improvement, health, education and good government.

"Our last responsibility is to our shareholders. Business must make a sound profit. Reserves must be created, research must be carried on, adventurous programs developed. . . We are determined, with the help of God's grace, to fulfill these obligations to the best of our ability."

Science Still Has Much to Learn About Ocean Waves

WASHINGTON—To an expert wave-watcher, the roll of surf can reveal a storm boiling 5,000 miles away.

Oceanographers have measured waves in England which came from the southern tip of South America. Antarctic storms can trigger swells reaching as far away as Alaska and Hawaii, the National Geographic Society says.

The United States and New Zealand recently launched a global wave study with the cooperation of scientists at New Zealand's Oceanographic Institute of the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research and the University of California's Institute of Geophysics and Planetary Physics. The project should provide more accurate predictions of heavy seas, so important to fishing and shipping fleets.

Waves Not Water Move

Scientists have tried for years to make waves spill their secrets. Leonardo da Vinci, an ardent 15th-century wave-watcher, noted that water behaves much like a waving wheat field. Water moves up and down, but, like the wheat, remains in place.

In World War II, a group of scientists known as the Swell Forecasting Section played a vital part in predicting the action of seas off Normandy on D-Day, June 6, 1944.

As those who were there remember, the predictions left something to be desired. The sea was catastrophically rough.

Giant sea waves always have been man's enemy. Seventy-foot hurricane waves reportedly destroyed 20,000 boats and drowned 300,000 people in the Bay of Bengal in 1737.

Biggest Waves Unseen

The biggest sea waves aren't even seen. Unexpected 300-foot giants have thrown submarines out of the water. Submarine waves beneath the surface occur when currents of different temperatures or salinity clash.

Seismic waves or tsunamis—Japanese for "harbor waves"—are most feared because they travel almost unnoticed at speeds up to 500 m.p.h. across the ocean then build up to great heights as they approach shore. Though they are called "tidal waves," the tsunamis are caused by submarine earthquakes or volcanic eruptions. An Alaskan earthquake in 1958 triggered seismic waves that climbed 1-600 feet up a heavily wooded mountainside and scoured trees, earth, and everything else down to the bedrock.

Damping Sea Waves

Ever since early seafarers "poured oil on the troubled waters," men have tried to still the seas.

In the 1st century A.D., Pliny the Elder reported that divers released olive oil from their mouths to try to calm the waters. The Spanish rigged paddle wheels in parallel channels out from the shore. British officials have experimented with perforated pipes, laid across a harbor mouth, which shoot up air bubbles.

Recently, but with little more success, a Frenchman devised a long, open box called a hydraulic resonator. The inventor claimed it calms the sea by pitting wave against wave to neutralize the motion.

United States Rubber Company scientists are pinning hopes on a floating box with hanging plastic and fabric curtains which will calm the ocean much as seaweed does. Hopefully the wave traps can serve as portable breakwaters to protect harbors, prevent beach erosion, and aid in sea rescue operations.

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — Put your thumb down anywhere on the land areas of a world map except North America and most of Europe, and you'll jab a tender spot where part of $8.5 billion is being spent annually in foreign aid to developing countries.

Alphabetically the recipients range through 124 countries and territories from Aden to Zanzibar. Geographically they circle the globe.

About $2.5 billion is in private investment aid.

The remaining $6 billion is in public funds distributed in the form of grants, loans, training of experts and sending of technical experts and equipment. It is distributed bilaterally, from country to country; regionally from or to groups of countries; and multilaterally, from many countries to many countries and funneled through agencies.

NO PRECISE FIGURES

Outside of the fact that the United States accounts for one-half of all foreign aid in the world today, nobody has any precise figure just who gives how much to whom.

A U.N. technical assistance survey, stressing that it was not official, developed these other general facts:

Nobody knows just how the private investment aid is shared.

About 10 per cent of public aid is channelled through the United Nations.

Chief donor countries are the United States, Britain, France, Soviet Union, West Germany, Canada, Japan and Switzerland.

Other important donors in bilateral aid programs are Netherlands, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Portugal and Italy.

Australia and New Zealand channeled their contributions through the British Commonwealth Colombo Plan.

Every one of the 87 countries classified by the U.N. members as underdeveloped gets some form of aid, either in direct help or in technical assistance and advice.

The U.N. survey showed that U.S. aid programs were represented in 81 less developed countries but were concentrated in about 20 that got about four-fifths of the $2.6 billion budget of aid—The Agency for International Development.

Largest U.S. programs were listed in Korea, Nationalist China, Philippines, Viet Nam, India, Pakistan, Israel, Turkey, Greece and Brazil.

LATIN AMERICA, AFRICA

More than half of the total aid budget's nonrepayable development grants go to Latin America and to Africa.

Latin America needs are fed through the six specialized agencies of the Organization of American States and through the Inter-American Development Bank.

The United States also contributed $1 billion to the British Commonwealth Colombo Plan in 1962. Britain is another mainstay of that program which spent $1.8 billion in 1961-62, chiefly for countries of Southeast Asia.

Britain's bilateral expenditures were expected to reach $500 million in the 1963 fiscal year. They were concentrated in Kenya, Tanganyika, Uganda, Nyasaland, Nigeria and northern Rhodesia in Africa; Jamaica, India and Pakistan.

Britain's Colombo Plan disbursement during 1962 was $96 million. Australia contributed almost $9 million, New Zealand $2 million.

Excluding its contributions to multilateral programs, France distributed $879 million in grants and loans during 1962, the greater share going to Algeria. The next largest share went to the 14 newly independent African and Malagasy states. After that there were contributions to Morocco, Tunisia, Cambodia, Laos, Viet Nam, French overseas departments, and some countries in Latin America and Asia.

West Germany disbursed the equivalent of $277 million in 1962 on all forms of economic aid to developing countries, exclusive of contributions to the United Nations and Common Market funds, and reparations payments.

The largest amounts were

Wisconsin Report

Both Parties to Exert Major Efforts to Win in Assembly

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON—The Democrats of Wisconsin have scored historic successes in Wisconsin elections since 1958.

They have won the governorship three times, which establishes a record for the party on its own account.

For the first time in the memory of most living Wisconsin voters they have both seats in the United States Senate. Their congressional representation in Wisconsin is respectable, at four out of ten, in view of the historical performance of the state party.

Yet in the essential power circle, which is the state capitol, the party remains foiled in spite of its nominal majority status through the circumstance that the Republicans have managed to retain control of the state legislative process. The people of Wisconsin have been willing to give the party some rich triumphs, albeit by close margins on occasions, but they have not yet given it the legislative power without which its majority status is not certified.

PREPARATIONS

Under such circumstances the announcement from Democratic party headquarters the other day about the formation of a legislative campaign committee was to be expected.

News agencies, indeed, tended to brush it off routinely. It was too pat to be worth much attention.

News bureaus are accustomed to this style of token press agency, the mechanical optimism, the habitual predictions of victory that are turned out from headquarters mimeograph machines in a flood in every campaign year. But there are signs that this was the signal for a more than ordinary effort on the legislative front in 1964.

Democrats know something about the trend in Wisconsin legislative elections in recent years that others have tended to ignore, or at least forget. They know that the party has steadily increased its legislative vote, and that in several recent years, in fact, it has actually won a majority of all of the popular votes cast for members of the state assembly.

The reason why the party did not win control of the assembly, in spite of its ability to attract a higher total of assembly votes for the Republicans, lies in the concentration of Democratic electoral sympathies in a relatively few sections. In Milwaukee County, notably, the Democrats "waste" votes for the legislature in a manner of speaking. Their candidates there sweep in almost by default. In the out-state districts it is more difficult. It is like the Green Bay Packers piling up big scores against the Vikings, when they need the points against the Bears.

THE PLAN

The problem in organizing good legislative campaigns is money. The Democrats now seem to be prepared to face up to it. There will be an explicit financial effort on behalf of legislative nominees, through district fund-raising dinners and other devices.

All of which won't be lost upon the Republicans. In a well-matched political contest, action brings reaction. The legislative front is as important to the Republicans as it is to the Democrats, although in both parties some of the professionals have tended to ignore what they really know about such matters. In Republican affairs, indeed, there should be an even more earnest appreciation. If the party hopes to be restored to state used in India, Greece, Afghanistan, United Arab Republic, Iran, Ethiopia, Ceylon, Tunisia, Congo Leopoldville, Togo, Thailand, Indonesia, Bolivia, Guinea and Jordan.

SOVIET FIGURES SHADOWY

Soviet figures are shadowy. From best report the Soviet Union has aid agreements for technical assistance in industrialization with 29 developing countries. The United Nations estimates the total committed in 1962 at the equivalent of about $400 million "although the amount disbursed may be less," it says.

The U.N. survey cites Soviet aid to build more than 480 industrial plants of various sorts in India, Indonesia, Afghanistan, United Arab Republic, Iraq, Syria, Ghana, Guinea, Somalia, Mali and Sudan among them.

The major European donor nations, along with the United States, Canada and Japan, also distribute aid through the Development Assistance Committee (DAC) of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development (OECD). Other members are Belgium, Denmark, France, West Germany, Italy, Netherlands, Norway, Portugal and Britain.

Belgium spent $68.5 million in 1962 on economic aid, much of it to Congo Leopoldville.

Canada's total expenditure in aid in 1962 was $37.5 million. The biggest portion went to such Latin American countries as Brazil, Chile and Mexico, and to Colombo Plan countries such as India, Pakistan and Ceylon. There are also Canadian programs in Nigeria, West Indies and Ghana.

Japan's bilateral aid expenditure in 1962 was $94 million with Asian members of the Colombo Plan and some Latin American countries as beneficiaries.

Of the remaining DAC members, the Netherlands devoted $42 million in 1962 to economic aid on a bilateral basis. Portugal $40.7 million, and Italy, Denmark and Norway somewhat lesser amounts. Denmark and Norway channel most of their aid funds through the United Nations.

Other countries listed as having bilateral aid programs are Austria, Sweden, Switzerland, Israel, the United Arab Republic, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland and India.

India, a major recipient, helps train experts for other countries. Israel sends out experts especially to help African countries.

COMMON MARKET PLANS

The Common Market also has set up economic help plans. One is an investment bank for loans to develop areas of continental Europe, such as southern Greece. The other, FED — Fund for Economic Development — has given more than 85 per cent of its $581 million fund to countries and territories in the French franc area.

By 1962 five countries which had received the most benefit from the fund were Cameroon, Malagasy Republic, Ivory Coast, Algeria and Senegal.

Another $730 million has been contributed for use between 1963 and 1968. The United Nations says these figures apparently include the contributions of countries in the Common Market.

In addition to loan, grant, expert and equipment assistance, the aid programs bulk large in training nationals of underdeveloped countries to go back home and take over the job foreign experts have started.

In 1962 the U.S. Aid program spent about $35 million to bring 6,000 men and women to the United States for training and to send 2,100 to third countries.

It also spent about $100 million to send 5,000 U.S. workers abroad, not including the peace corps.

Britain had 17,500 British experts in the field in the last fiscal year and was training 4,644 foreign fellowship holders at home.

The Soviet Union was estimated to have about 6,000 experts abroad during 1962 "although this figure may include personnel from other countries of eastern Europe," the U.N. report said. It had 4,954 foreigners listed as trainees in the Soviet Union the same year.

France assigned 53,900 experts abroad, of whom 29,260 were teachers, in 1962 and in the same year trained 9,522 nationals of developing countries in France.

West Germany had 2,805 such trainees.

New Stage Connection Important

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for Jan. 2, 1864.

A daily stage now plies between this place and New London, connecting at Young's Corners (Medina) with the stage for Waupaca.

This is an important arrangement for travelers at either of the above points. Travelers can leave their respective localities in the morning, take the afternoon train here and arrive in Chicago the following morning.

Waupaca citizens are thus spared the annoyance and expense of stopping overnight at Berlin as heretofore.

25 YEARS AGO

Saturday, Dec. 31, 1939.

Florian Spang, crack 18-year-old Menasha bowler, challenged Kaukauna's top bowler, Robert Martzahl, 19, to a total pin match. The first block of games were set for Jan. 7 and the second Jan. 14. Martzahl had a 190.5 league average and Spang had turned in a 289 game and a 727 series that year.

Outagamie County officials, elected to office the previous November, took their oaths of office. Stephen Peeters, registrar of deeds, was the only newcomer, succeeding Arthur L. Collar in office. Others included Sydney Shannon, clerk of court, John E. Hantschel, county clerk, Dr. H. E. Ellsworth, coroner, John Lappen, sheriff, Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, county treasurer, Raymond P. Dohr, district attorney, Robert M. Connelly, surveyor.

Cited for perfect attendance at Cherry Hill School, Town of Seymour, were Mary Ann Gantner, Alvin and Glenda Gehrke, Donald and Vernon Landwehr, Leonard, Ethel and Albert Maas.

George Karnitz was elected president of the Appleton Truck Drivers Union. Other officers were Edward Grob, vice president, Earl Wooden, recording secretary, Helmut Wolff, financial secretary, Alfred Bowers, trustee. Harold Douglas was business manager of the union.

10 YEARS AGO

Saturday, Jan. 2, 1954.

The elaborate and large display at the Ernest Krueger home, 139 S. Maple St., Kimherly, won first prize in the Christmas house decorating contest sponsored by the Kimberly Recreation Association. It was a display that included a large white deer stepping through a huge frame, a giant candleabra with 20 large candles and an angel suspended above the porch. Second place winner was William Schumacher and Melvin Burt won third place.

Officers of the Neenah High School Economics Club included Darlene Snell, president, Darlene Sommer, vice president, Carol Porath, secretary, and Ruthann Kruse, treasurer.

Joe Spilski, Menasha, rolled the highest series in the Twin Cities season as he bowled a 727 national honor count in the Fox Valley Classic Bowling League at Lakewood Lanes. He had previously hit a 703 in November in the same league.

'Police State' Established in Nation's Capital

New Law Prohibits Discrimination in Property Dealings

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Maybe the news ought to be hushed up, though Moscow would soon learn the truth a n y h o w — namely, that within the last three days a form of "police state" has been established in the District of Columbia.

The capital of the United States is supposed to be governed by laws passed by Congress. The three commissioners are appointed by the president, but they have no authority to write laws. They nevertheless have just promulgated a "law" which imposes fines and jail sentences on any citizen—whether he be a property-owner or a real-estate salesman—who refuses or fails to sell or rent "housing accommodations" to "any person because of the race, color, religion or national origin of such person."

Almost all of the states of the union have not gone that far. Indeed, the Supreme Court of the United States in 1948 upheld the right of citizens not only collectively but individually to dispose of their property to whomever they pleased and to select a purchaser by any process of choice they cared to exercise. Supreme Court
The supreme court, in this case—known as Hurd V. Dodge — declared that, while a group of citizens in Washington, D.C., might enter into an agreement not to sell their property to certain purchasers, such an agreement could not be enforced in the courts on any dissenting signatory. But nowhere in the case is there any prohibition against the right of an individual to sell to whomever he wishes.

The commissioners of the District of Columbia are local officials, but they rarely do anything of great importance without the guidance of the White House. The late President Kennedy favored the issuance of an order forbidding any racial discrimination in the sale or rental of all housing in the district, but the order was held in abeyance. Congressional committees expressed their disapproval and warned against action by the commissioners. There is no information available as to whether President Johnson was consulted by the commissioners before they announced that on January 20 the new "law" will become effective.

The net effect of this development is to give support to the argument that "the end justifies the means." In the absence of action by Congress, the district commissioners went ahead anyhow. President Johnson will soon have to disclose whether he is in favor of the step taken by the district officials.

Order Text
The text of the order issued by the commissioners says that "The police regulations of the District of Columbia" are to be considered as amended and that the action has been rendered necessary because, among other things, there is a "clear relationship between poor housing, conditions and the health and comfort of the occupants, and the effects of such conditions also constitute a danger to the property of both whites and Negroes." Congress 72 years ago gave the commissioners here the right to make "police regulations" primarily to preserve order but nothing was said about the right of individuals under the constitution to dispose of their property in any way they wish.

The Washington "Star" says editorially:
"Finally, the mere existence of the district ordinance is bound to affect thinking in the suburbs to some extent. And in the final analysis, this may be the most important effect of all. For despite the injustices which no doubt exist within the district, the goal of providing more and better housing for Negroes will not be fully realized until the barriers also are relaxed to a greater degree beyond the city limits."

But the nearby states of Maryland and Virginia have not passed any law interfering with the right of citizens to use their own discretion in whatever sales of their property they may wish to make, nor is there any statute before Congress which goes that far.

The Washington "Post" in an editorial says:
New Law

"No one can expect this new law to have a sudden and radical effect upon Washington's overpriced housing market for Negroes. The uniformly white neighborhoods in the city are usually the expensive ones, and

Taxes in Menasha Continues on Rise

MENASHA — City Treas. W. Edwards Friday said the rush of Menasha residents to pay real and personal property taxes for 1963 has increased rather than decreased at the end of the year.

Edwards said the number of residents paying taxes early in the year far exceeds that in 1962.

The large number appearing at the office was at first believed to be due to residents wanting to pay taxes before the end of the year so the sums could be discounted from other taxes. However, the number of payments increased after the first of the year.

Edwards gave out no figures on how much in taxes have been collected so far. Up to $36,000 was paid the first day the bills were sent out, however.

Neenah Man Loses Two Fingers in Mishap

MENASHA — A Neenah man was in satisfactory condition in Theda Clark Hospital Friday after losing two fingers on his left hand as a result of a mill accident.

Norman Spielbauer, 431 Washington Ave., Neenah, was rushed to the hospital by Lindy's Ambulance, Menasha, at 2:45 p.m. Thursday after he slipped on a press at the Gilbert Paper Co. and caught his left hand in a chain drive gear. Two fingers were amputated from his left hand after the accident.

Menasha Man Pleads Guilty to Car Theft

OSHKOSH — Charles K. Shannon, 22, 741 Carver Lane, Menasha, pleaded guilty to car theft and County Judge James Sitter set sentencing for Jan. 20. Shannon was charged with taking a car owned by Harry Longman from a Racine Street parking place in Menasha on Dec. 15.

Judge Sitter provided that Shannon will be allowed to work out of the jail until the Jan. 20 sentencing.

the ordinance cannot reach economic segregation.
But such a prediction now is surrounded by doubt. For if the case is there any prohibition against the right of an individual to sell to whomever he wishes.

1963 Great Year for Actor James Garner

Proves Television Star Can Make Successful Switch to Movie World

BY BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — No doubt about it, 1963 was James Garner's year of arrival.

The question of whether a television star can make it as a movie attraction has been answered. It can be done.

Garner's record for 1963 discloses three highly successful films, with another apparent winner coming into release.

During a break on his current film, "The Americanization of Emily," Garner was asked for an accounting of the year's releases.

Quite A Record
His reply: "They figure 'The Great Escape' will draw between 14 and 16 million worldwide. 'The Thrill of It All' is figured to make 11 million. 'The Wheeler Dealers,' which I thought was okay but the weakest of the three, will make about half of that."

Another Garner film, "Move Over, Darling," was a holiday attraction. A comedy with Doris Day as costar, it seems certain of success.

The prosperity of these films is gratifying to the tall Oklahoman, but his interest is not financial. Unlike most top stars nowadays, he does not share in the profits.

Likes Straight Salary
"I prefer to work for a straight salary," he said. "Yes, I know that everybody else is taking a cut of the profits or spreading the payments out over a period of years. But I'd rather take a salary, pay my tax and put the remainder into a depreciable investment."

"Taking a spread wouldn't work for me. Supposing I got $200,000 a picture—that's a hypothetical figure because I'm not going to tell you how much I make. If I made three pictures a year, that's $600,000, part of which I'd spread over the next years. I'm 35 now; if I kept spreading the payments, I'd be making too much money by the time I was 40.

"So it's better to take the dough now and put it into something like the 32-unit apartment house I bought. The initial investment is not so great, and the depreciation is excellent."

"Besides, by taking a straight salary — which I have not changed, by the way — Producers consider me a better buy than other actors who want a piece of the action."

In today's market a star as hot as Garner would be a good buy at $200,000 — if that is indeed his neighborhood. The former "Maverick" is a versatile performer who can bounce from comedy to adventure. His television training makes him a fast study.

Mischief, Vandalism By Youngsters Keep Menasha Police Busy

MENASHA — Youngsters kept police here busy most of the day Thursday with mischief and vandalism.

A First Street resident called police when, she said, youngsters threw Christmas trees on her front porch, making it impossible for her to open the door. Police removed the trees and opened the door.

Another First Street resident called police and reported youngsters going through the neighborhood tipping over garbage cans. Police found nothing to substantiate the report when they arrived.

Donald Debraal, 805 Fifth St., told police 10 light bulbs are missing from the bushes in his front yard.

A Lake Road resident reported Christmas trees placed on a bridge there partially blocking the road.

Police also investigated two other incidents involving boys and girls in an apparent snow fight.

KIMBERLY—Kimberly overcame a 9-1 deficit after over four minutes of play in the first period and battled back to a 54-49 victory over Clintonville here Friday night.

Lee Levknecht, who canned the first Kimberly field goal with 3:37 to play in the first quarter, led the Papermakers with 23 points. The M-E ace hit 9 of 14 field goal attempts.

A slow deliberate attack got the Truckers an early lead in the first stanza. Bill Melzer hit on a short jump shot with 6:19 left in the period and Terry Dieck followed with a free throw at the 5:54 mark.

First Point Levknecht connected for Kimberly's first point at the 5:45 mark but baskets by Melzer, Jerry Shepard, and Melzer again made the count, 9-1, with 3:44 to play in the quarter.

Papermaker coach Gene Mason promptly pulled his height (Sieve Meyer and Gordon Zillges) and inserted John DeWilde and Dennis Kroner and the team went to work on the lead.

Levknecht hit the Papermaker's first fielder at 3:37 and followed with another a half-minute later. DeWilde nearly caught the Truckers at the period's end when his basket made the count, 12-11.

Jerry Wyngaard's basket at the 6:35 mark in the second quarter put Kimberly in the lead but after Mark Rosnow's fielder, with 5:54 left, Clintonville still had a 16-15 lead.

Levknecht and Mark Vandehit hit two free throws, and Levknecht sank one charity toss, to give Kimberly a 22-16 lead with a barrage of seven straight points.

Never Headed The winners were never headed thereafter although Clintonville pulled to within a point, at 23-22, with 2:35 to go in the third period.

Chance at victory still seemed within the reach of the visiting Truckers as Levknecht picked up his fourth personal with 1:28 to go in the third quarter.

Kimberly let loose with 12 straight points at the start of the final period to put the game in the proverbial ice box. The Papermaker's biggest lead was at 48-34.

Both teams shot near the 43 per cent mark with Kimberly canning 20 baskets on 46 shots for a 43.5 percentage. Clintonville hit at 43.6 per cent on 17 baskets on 39 shots.

The Truckers had 8 of 17 in the first half and Kimberly had 11 of 20. The Truckers sank 15 of 21 from the free throw line.

point lead, 68-49, at the midway point of the half.

Oshkosh managed to trade baskets the remaining 10 minutes, but could not cut the gap.

Oshkosh was almost completely shut out of the offensive boards as South Dakota outrebounded the Titans 77-44. It also was one of the Titans off-nights from the field as they hit only 21 of 73 shots for an anemic 28.8 per cent. South Dakota State had 23 more shots, hitting on 38 of 95 for 39.6 per cent.

OSC also was hurt when center Al Schmidt fouled out of the game with about 12 minutes left to play. The Kimberly sophomore was averaging 15 points a game, managed only one field goal and five free throws.

Oshkosh led only once in the contest. After a very slow start, the Titans took a 9-6 lead with 15 minutes left in the half. South Dakota went out in front a few minutes later and never trailed the rest of the way.

The Jackrabbits took a seven-point lead, 40-33, to open the second half before baskets by Jim Van Grinsven and Jim Jaeger cut the margin to three points. Jim Egan then scored for the Jackrabbits, but Doug Carrievau and Mike Dieters scored baskets for Oshkosh to cut the margin to one point. Lack started to hit at this point and South Dakota opened up an unsurmountable lead.

The Titans will play the University of South Dakota tonight at Vermillion.

was confirmed by Hutchinson's physician brother, at whose home in Seattle the Cincinnati manager is staying.

Dr. William Hutchinson declined to give details of his brother's illness.

"I think that covers it for now," Dr. Hutchinson said after confirming the malignancy and saying his brother would remain in Seattle for two months for treatment. "It's something of a shocker, of course, and a personal matter besides."

DeWitt said he hoped the treatments would "prepare Hutchinson for the spring training and the 1964 season."

Reds pitchers and catchers are scheduled to begin spring training at Tampa, Fla. on Feb. 29, with other players reporting March 5.

DeWitt said Hutchinson went to Seattle last Sunday after having been treated in Florida, where he lives.

"We don't know how it will come out," DeWitt said, "but we are going ahead with spring training plans on the premise he will be there. Of course, you never know how those things will come out."

Hutchinson, 44, has managed the Reds since July 8, 1959 and guided them to their first National League pennant in 21 years in 1961. He previously managed the Detroit Tigers and St. Louis Cardinals after a long career as a pitcher for the Tigers.

Wants to Meet Archer

Torres Tips Gonzalez In 10-Round TV Hatch

NEW YORK (AP)—Jose Torres, strong, awkward, mauling Gones hopes to shake off more of zalez.

Gonzalez, conqueror of top-ranking Rubin Carter of Paterson, N.J., and Archer, is the No. 9 contender while Torres, despite a better numerical record, is unranked.

To get Gonzalez into the ring with him, Torres gave his opponent the fighters' $10,000 total share of the television receipts. He gambled on 50 per cent of the net gate. The crowd of about 4,600 paid close to $12,000. So Torres wound up with about $5,000, instead of the $7,500 he would have collected for an even split with Gonzalez.

Torres gained the verdict by winning four of the first five rounds from his aggressive but ineffective opponent and putting on spurts in the sixth and ninth rounds.

The officials had Torres the winner by the following rounds' scores: Judges Al Berl and Tony Riccio, 6-4 each, and Referee Clay Clayton, 6-3-1. Clayton, who pried the two apart all night, did a fine job. The AP 101-100 by Kimberly in its most figures to look better against recent test.

East, West Teams Completed for NBA All-Star Tilt

NEW YORK (AP) — National Basketball Association coaches completed the East and West teams which meet in the NBA's 14th annual All-Star game at Boston Jan. 14 by selecting two Detroit players and one each from New York and Philadelphia to the squads Thursday.

The coaches' poll tabbed Bailley Howell and Don Ohl of the Pistons, the Knickerbockers' Tom Gola and the 76ers' Chet Walker. They join 16 players selected last week by NBA writers and broadcasters.

Red Auerbach of Boston will coach the East, which holds an 8-5 edge in All-Star victories.

Los Angeles Coach Freddy Schaus will lead the West.

The Celtics' Bill Russell and Baltimore's Walt Bellamy were the only unanimous picks in last week's poll. Bob Pettit of St. Louis was named for the 10th straight year while Walker, New York's Len Chappell and Cincinnati's Jerry Lucas will be appearing for the first time.

Cincinnati '5' Hands Oregon State 57-53 Loss Behind Bonham

UCLA Bounces to 88-83 Triumph Over Washington State

BY MURRAY CHASS

Oregon State's eighth-ranked Beavers probably wouldn't have minded at all if Cincinnati basketball ace Ron Bonham had been even rougher on them in the first of the teams' two-game series.

Bonham, a vital cog in fourth-ranked Cincinnati's attack, came close to being ejected for his rough play in the early minutes of Friday night's contest. But he cooled down, got hot and sparked the Bearcats to a 57-53 victory.

At the same time, wizardous Walt Hazzard bounced UCLA, the nation's number two team, to an 88-83 triumph over stubborn Washington State on a night when just about all of the major action took place on the West Coast.

The 6-foot-5 Bonham, an All-America last year, scored 23 points and brought Cincinnati from an early 10-point deficit to its eighth victory in 10 contests. His performance overshadowed that of Oregon State's seven-footer, Mel Counts, who tallied 33 points.

Through Half

Down 18-8 midway through the first half, the Bearcats rallied behind Bonham and tied the game 28-28 at halftime.

Then, with the score tied again at 32-32 early in the second half, Gene Smith and Bonham broke loose for layups and a Cincinnati lead that Oregon State never headed. The loss gave the Beavers a 9-2 record.

UCLA was well on the way to its 10th victory without a defeat when Washington State rallied late in the second half. Five quick baskets helped cut UCLA's lead from 14 points to six at 81-75, and the West Coast's top team appeared wobbly.

At this point Hazzard, the Bruins' backcourt whiz, took control of the ball and, as it turned out, the game. For seconds, just about half of the time remaining, Hazzard dribbled the ball.

When he finished he plunked in two free throws and a 10-foot jump shot that sealed the victory. He had 18 points in all while teammate Gail Goodrich scored 28.

In other games, Southern California upset Stanford 75-74 in overtime, California squeezed by Washington 46-44 and Princeton belted Washington University of St. Louis 85-56.

4-Lane Roads, Seat Belts and Police Patrol Lowered Total

MADISON (AP)—A total of commend the Associated Press 901 persons died on Wisconsin's for its many mentions of seat belt use or non-use in its round-the toll was 55 less than the year ups on traffic fatalities since before and a welcome reversal of a fatal trend.

Wisconsin became the first state in the union to make seat belts mandatory in new cars.

State highway officials credit the saving in lives to the state's expanded four-lane road system, increased use of seat belts, an airborne police patrol and a big helping of good fortune.

"Like some of the year-end football game winners, in one way we were lucky," said Dan F. Schutz, state highway safety promotion director. "You can play the game hard and win one day and you can use the same plays and lose on another. We ended 1963 with a sizeable reduction in deaths, yet New Year's Day of 1964 proved far worse than New Year's Day of 1963."

Reduced Toll

Commissioner James L. Karns of the State Motor Vehicle Department also tempered his comment on the reduced death toll recorded last year.

"We have won a battle, but the war against recklessness, carelessness and indifference continues, and must continue," Karns said.

"We must continue to use all the tolls available in the arsenal of accident prevention techniques," he said. "Adequate records, strict law enforcement, wider school and public education, impartial court administration, up-date laws and ordinances, safer cars, more free-ways and more conscientious public support are imperative."

Schutz noted that officials were working last year against the state's worst traffic record of all time—956 deaths in 1962. "Had we failed to make a good gain, the prospect of hitting 1,000 deaths in 1964 would have been increased considerably," he said.

Multi-Fatalities

According to Schutz, there were fewer multi-fatality accidents contributing to the 1963 toll. His records show 216 persons died in such mishaps, whereas the total in 1962 was 276.

The worst highway accident 1963 claimed six lives. In 1962, seven persons died in a single crash.

Holidays in 1963 fell in the middle of the week, easing the traffic burden in comparison with other recent years when the holiday periods were longer, Schutz noted.

The safety director added that more traffic was diverted to the expanding system of freeways and expressways, relieving congestion on such routes as U.S. 14, 12, and 51, "which previously had a bloody history."

"Seat belts became more acceptable as a self-help in preventing death and minimizing injury," Schutz said.

Seat Belts

He added:

"For the past two years the newspapers in Wisconsin in many areas included in accident stories an item on whether or not seat belts were in use. We

American boats because their freight rates are higher than those of foreign vessels. For a time it appeared that Soviet sales might not develop because of the freight question.

Indirect Subsidies

The possibility that the Continental deal may carry indirect freight subsidies to meet Soviet opposition to the higher rates of U.S. ships was seen in the export subsidies the department will pay on nearly 13 million bushels of durum-class wheat involved in the Soviet sale.

The department agreed to pay a subsidy averaging 72.5 cents a bushel on the durum. This was upwards of 15 cents more than the agency had paid on other recent subsidized sales of this type wheat. Durum is used for making macaroni, spaghetti and similar products.

This extra amount in the durum subsidy was equivalent to about $1,750,000 based on the difference between recent subsidy payments and that approved for Continental.

The subsidy rates on the remaining part of the 37 million bushels range from 51 to 65 cents a bushel, depending on class of wheat and ports from which it will be shipped. The other types are used mainly for flour for bread and other baking purposes.

Byrnes Urges Caution About Russian Proposal

BY FRANCES MCKUSICK
Post-Crescent Washington Bureau

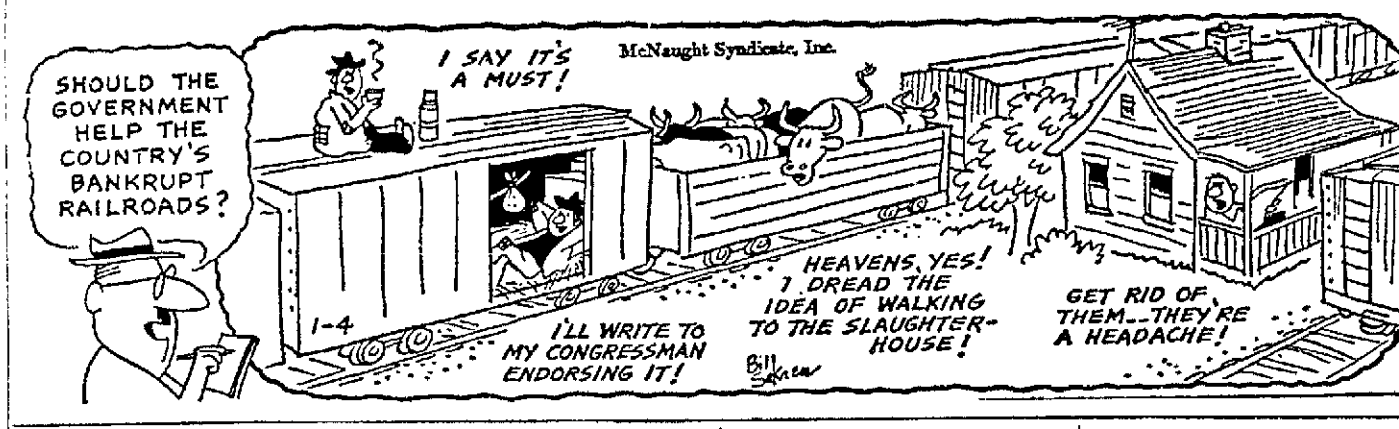

WASHINGTON — Rep. John W. Byrnes, R., Green Bay, today warned that the United States should exercise extreme caution in taking seriously any of the "Trojan horse proposals" made this week by Premier Khrushchev's multi-nation non-aggression declarations.

Stressing that although "everyone throughout the entire world holds the hope for peace and good will," the Green Bay Congressman pointed out that "actions speak louder than words," especially where Russia is concerned.

"We can't judge Russia by her words or her promises," Byrnes declared. "We have found that Russia can't be taken at her word. So it seems to me that when Russia starts talking about peace and cutting down on military spending we had better be even a little more on our guard than usual."

He added that Khrushchev's sweeping proposal on non-aggression and alleged "peace" could conceivably turn into a propaganda mechanism similar to the historical Trojan horse which would backfire against our own welfare and security.

Jordan's King Hails Visit by Pope Paul

an hour behind schedule on the drive from Amman, the Jordanian capital, reached Jerusalem after stops at holy places along the 54-mile highway, in the opening of a historic visit which the Pope hopes will advance the causes of world peace and Christian unity.

Crowds Slow Progress

In the center of Jerusalem, the city where Christ preached and died, the papal motorcade was brought to a virtual standstill by a thick, screaming crowd. Officials pushed the crowds back.

The crowds had been waiting since early morning in weather that changed from early sunshine to dark clouds, then back to gleaming sunlight again just before the 66-year-old leader of the Roman Catholic Church arrived.

"Prayer and Penance"

Departing from Rome, the Pope emphasized the religious aspect of his trip, which he described as "a pilgrimage of prayer and of penance."

"Ours is intended to be a return to the cradle of Christianity... a visit of prayer to the places made holy by the life, passion and resurrection of Our Lord," he said.

He also emphasized his hopes that his trip would advance the cause of world peace, saying: "In these days, when the sacred liturgy recalls the Prince of Peace, we will beg of Him to give to the world this precious gift and to consolidate it always more firmly among men, in families and among peoples."

From the Amman Airport, the route of the papal motorcade lay through the ancient Biblical countryside to Jerusalem, 54 miles away. Jordanian troops and police lined the route in a massive display of security arrangements.

Governors at Bridge

At the Emir Abdullah bridge over the Jordan River, Jerusalem's governor and other dignitaries awaited the pontiff. From the bridge could be seen the steeple of the Church of the Ascension atop the Mount of Olives, where Jesus is believed to have risen to heaven, and the Dead Sea, the lowest spot on earth, in the distance to the south.

The remaining 14 miles took the Pope's modern caravan from below sea level gradually upward through the Judean hills to the holy city itself, 3,000 feet above sea level.

Buildings in the Old City of Jerusalem, holy to three great world religions, were draped with papal colors of yellow and white and the Jordanian national colors of black, white, red and green.

Soldiers Keep Guard

Arab Legion soldiers stood alertly on guard atop the ancient crenelated walls from which they could look down on either side of the divided city.

The Pope's route through Jerusalem took him on foot along the Way of the Cross, the path Christ followed on His way to Calvary and the crucifixion, to the Church of the Holy Sepulcher.

In Israel, which Pope Paul will visit Sunday, Prime Minister Levi Eshkol welcomed the arrival of the pontiff with the ancient Hebrew greeting, "Blessed is your coming in peace."

"In welcoming the Pope to the gates of our land," Eshkol said in a statement, "we are conscious of his particular interest in, and incessant efforts for, peace in the world."

Promotes Peace

"May the pontiff's visit contribute to the strengthening of the aspiration for peace in our region and in the entire world."

In Israel the Pope will visit Nazareth, the Church of the Annunciation, the Sea of Galilee, Mount Tabor, the Church of the Beatitudes, at the site of the Sermon on the Mount, and the hall of the Last Supper.

In the evening he will cross back into the Jordanian sector of Jerusalem for his meeting with Patriarch Athenagoras I of Constantinople, the spiritual leader of the Orthodox churches.

A chartered Italian jetliner took off from Rome's International Airport with the Pope and a retinue of 30 aides at 8:55 a.m. (2:55 a.m. EST) for the journey to Amman, Jordan. The takeoff was 25 minutes ago.

Loss of Over $100,000 In Sun Prairie Fire

SUN PRAIRIE (AP) — The Chase Lumber and Fuel Co. was destroyed by fire Friday night at a loss estimated by Ted Chase, president of the firm, at $100,000 to $150,000. No one was injured.

Firemen from Sun Prairie and surrounding areas fought the blaze for two hours before bringing it under control.

Chase said that in addition to the main lumber storage building, several smaller structures were destroyed.

Causes of the blaze was not determined.

The pontiff was seen off by Italian President Antonio Segni, Premier Aldo Moro, Marxist-Socialist Deputy Premier Pietro Nenni and more than 1,000 diplomats, dignitaries, clerics and plain Romans gathered at the airport.

A flight of Italian air force jets escorted the big American-built airliner from the airport to the limits of Italian air space. Otherwise it was a simple departure, without bands or honor guards, in keeping with the Pope's insistence that his trip was above all a religious pilgrimage.

In a brief airport speech in Italian, the Pope emphasized the religious aspect of his trip and his hopes that it would help bring universal peace and brotherhood among men.

The trip, said the pontiff, "is a pilgrimage of prayer and penance, for a more intimate and vital participation in the mysteries of the redemption, and to proclaim always more clearly to men that only in the Gospel of Jesus is the awaited and desired salvation: for there is no other name under heaven given to men by which we must be saved." (Acts 4, 12)

The Pope said his thoughts went out "to all peoples, sending a greeting of prosperity and well being."

"In particular," he said, "we will remember the people of the Orient, to whom we draw nearer or who will be present through the whole circle of our voyage."

"We include them all in our prayer and in our greeting."

Before he returns late Monday, the Pope will have traveled about 3,500 miles by plane and car, possibly the longest papal trip in history. It is the first plane trip for a Pope, the first papal trip outside Italy in 150 years, and the first visit by a Pope to the Holy Land since St. Peter — the first pontiff — left Palestine nearly 2,000 years ago.

He's Afraid to Pick Up $59,333

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — Stephen Fox didn't pick up his $59,333 at police headquarters Friday. Too dangerous, he said.

The money is his share of $89,000 in unclaimed cash he turned up with his bulldozer in Jericho, Long Island, on June 2, 1960. It was in a metal box.

The state Supreme Court awarded him the sum last month. Fox said he'd pick it up with an armored truck. Police armed with shotguns waited at the appointed hour.

Sometime later, Fox's lawyer arrived, minus Fox and armored truck.

"I'm sorry," he said, "but my client has decided against coming because of security reasons."

There is a bank 100 feet across the street from police headquarters.

NFO Protest Rally Held at Kiel Co-Op

Protest Discharge of Supplier,
Cancellation of His Contract

BY DOUGLAS KOPLIEN
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

KIEL — A demonstration was staged at the Lake to Lake Dairy Cooperative here at 11:30 a.m. Friday by a group of farmers demanding "freedom" for a discharged member of the cooperative.

The group called "Freedom for Frank Schwoerer Committee" challenged Truman Torgerson, general manager of the cooperative to a debate.

According to Martin Salm Sr., route 3, Chilton, spokesman for the National Farmer's Organization, Schwoerer's contract with the cooperative was cancelled because of NFO affiliations.

Dan Jindra, Lake to Lake field supervisor, stated Schwoerer, a Valders farmer, was openly working against the cooperative and was discharged because of it. Jindra said the cooperative is opposed to the NFO because its goals and objectives were not economically sound. The dairy plans to protect its members against any such opposition, Jindra stated.

Group Was 'Orderly'
The group of about 100 persons was orderly Jindra said. All that was done, according to Jindra, was the displaying of signs, banners and placards. Jindra acted on behalf of the dairy in the absence of Torgerson.

Over a year ago, the dairy had stated its position in respect to the NFO. They expect their employees to be loyal to the cooperative, Jindra said.

The NFO has challenged Torgerson to a debate concerning the objective of the organizations and no answer has been received, according to Salm.

Freedom "Stinted"
The committee for Schwoerer feels the freedom of the farmer has been stunted by the action of the cooperative, Salm said. The farmers own the cooperative and they should be able to haul their milk to it, he stated.

Salm said he believes if nothing is done it will not be long before they will even dictate which church the farmers should attend. "They are members and if they can't haul their milk to their own plant there is something wrong," he declared.

Persons participating in the demonstration were not members of the cooperative according to Jindra. None were familiar to him, he said.

Salm, on the other hand, stated members of the dairy, as well as individual farmers took part in the demonstration. Salm did not take part, although he was asked if he approved as a representative of the NFO. The main reason for the 30 car cavalcade he said, was to show the dairy they thought their freedom was being imposed upon.

After completing their demonstration at Kiel they moved to the general manager's office in Manitowish.

City Attorney Race Develops

SAUVE — Dan E. Sauve, 1207 N. Nevada Court, Appleton, has been appointed traffic manager for Bergstrom Paper Co. He succeeds William J. Edwards, 115 Edna Ave., Neenah, who will become traffic consultant.

Sauve joined Bergstrom as assistant traffic manager in January, 1963 after three years as director of traffic services for J. J. Keller & Associates of Neenah. From April, 1947, through September, 1960, he was district manager of the Steffke Freight Co.

Edwards came to Bergstrom Paper as traffic adviser in April, 1957, after a year with J. J. Keller & Associates as traffic consultant. He had reached mandatory retirement age at Kimberly-Clark Corp. in 1955 where he had been chief of the rate division and earlier Canadian traffic manager since 1946.

New London Game Club, Marsh Landowners to Meet

State Conservation Officials
To Explain Purchase Proposal

NEW LONDON — The New London Fish and Game Club has invited 30 Mukwa Marsh area landowners to its annual meeting Jan. 23 at the American Legion clubhouse. The club will acquaint the landowners with the proposal by the state to purchase the 1,381 acres of land for a game preserve and hunting area.

The New London Chamber of Commerce will join the Fish and Game Club in sponsoring the banquet for the landowners. Each of the landowners will be accompanied by either a Fish and Game Club member or a member of the Chamber of Commerce Wolf River Committee.

Harold Steinke, of the State Conservation Game Management Division and land procurement agent for the department, will be the guest speaker. He will explain the acquisition and answer any questions the landowners may have. He will be accompanied by Jerome Reichhoff, another member of the Game Management division.

Taken Appreciation
Waddie Nader, a member of the Fish and Game Club said the banquet will also be a token of appreciation to the landowners who in the past leased their land to the state for a public hunting grounds. For the use of their land, owners received only 20 cents per acre, he said.

The Mukwa Marsh project, located just west of New London, was originated by the New London Club and presented to the Wolf River Basin Regional Planning Commission last summer.

Attacks Neenah Board

Alderman Protests Cut In School Bus Service

NEENAH — Neenah Ald. Carl B. Coenen today attacked the joint Neenah District school board for its "ways of striking back at the council" in reducing its $3 million 1964 budget by a $70,000 cut imposed by the council in December.

Coenen took direct aim at the school board's decision Thursday to halt bus service in the city of Neenah for grades 7 to 12, effective Jan. 13.

This action eliminated the use of one school bus and deferred the purchase of an additional bus for an estimated $9,000.

"I thought they (the school board) were way above this type of action," Coenen said. "There are other ways to cut a $3 million budget and I could mention a few, if they are willing to listen."

"My ward has U.S. 41 in it, and I'll use every method to get them to rescind their action, because of the hazardous conditions at Cecil Street and 41," he said.

Coenen said the people of Neenah pay for about 70 per cent of the school transportation costs and "so I see no reason for cutting us (the city) alone in transportation if this has to be done."

In addition the school board made the following budget cuts: $31,470 in capital outlays (including the cut in bus purchase), $19,350 cut in instruction, $15,850 in maintenance, $2,250 by having parents of children in kindergarten through sixth grade to pay their children's 75 cents WIAA insurance fee, and $1,080 in transportation.

The Sixth Ward representative said his phone has been constantly ringing with calls from persons protesting the action of the school board, and the action of the council in granting this same school board 60 acres on the Swatscheno farm tract.

"The phone was ringing into the wee hours," he said.

"I called Paul Groth, school board president, and Jim Clark, school business manager, and registered my protest (against the transportation cut) as both a citizen and an alderman," Coenen said.

State May Finance Planned Memorial Drive Projects

Hepatitis May Have Caused Girl's Death

Appleton Health
Office Awaiting Autopsy Report

The death of an 8-year-old Appleton girl last month may have been caused by infectious hepatitis.

Health Commissioner Dr. Marvin Kagen said today his office is awaiting the report of the pathologist who performed the autopsy at a Madison hospital where the youngster died.

"We have had no confirmation that she did have the disease," Dr. Kagen said. He indicated there were symptoms, however.

Five cases of the highly contagious disease were reported in Appleton during 1963, the latest being that of a woman in her 30s.

No Contact

Dr. Kagen said there was no relationship or contact between the girl who died and the woman who contracted the disease a few weeks ago.

Members of the woman's family and others who came in close contact with her have been administered shots of gamma globulin, which serves as an antibiotic against the virus.

Infectious hepatitis is an infection of the liver which can be a mild or fatal attack.

Appleton had more cases reported last year than it did in the three previous years.

During December, Appleton experienced a major outbreak of mumps and chicken pox and it appears it will carryover into January.

The health department said 220 cases of mumps and 149 chicken pox were reported last month, along with 8 cases of measles, 2 German measles.

Births at Appleton Memorial and St. Elizabeth hospitals totaled 164 in December, with 89 being non-resident.

There were 34 deaths reported, including those of six non-residents.

Heart disease was the main cause of death—15 cases, followed by cancer with 8 and pneumonia, 4.

Three illegitimate births were reported in Appleton, including one non-resident.

Fox Valley Real Estate Appraisers Sponsoring Report Writing Seminar

A narrative seminar sponsored by the Fox Valley Chapter, Society of Real Estate Appraisers (SREA) will be held at the Conway Hotel from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Jan. 18, Carlton F. Williams, Neenah city assessor and seminar chairman said Friday.

Conducting the seminar on appraisal report writing will be Edward J. Winkler, of Milwaukee.

There are still a few registrations open, Williams said. They may be obtained by writing to the Fox Valley Chapter, SREA, box 491, Neenah.

Appleton Works Director Has Met With Highway Department

Appleton has a 50-50 chance of having the state pick up the tab for redesigning and resurfacing a portion of Memorial Drive in 1964, it was learned this week.

Public Works Director Robert W. Bues disclosed he has been in contact with officials of the Highway Commission at Green Bay.

Bues, along with members of the common council's street-sanitation committee, are optimistic at this point.

The council has made an official request to the district engineer for the State Highway Commission to prepare plans and specifications for the resurfacing of Memorial Drive from the north end of the Fox River bridge to the intersection of Memorial Drive and Lawrence Street.

Should the state agree to undertake the project, it will present a savings of several thousand dollars for the City of Appleton.

Widen Intersection
Widening the Memorial Drive-Prospect Avenue intersection, a project held over from 1963, also is planned.

On another subject, the council requested the Chicago and North Western Railroad to relocate the crossing warning signals on Drew Street between Atlantic and Hancock streets.

The signals are near the station where the new headquarters station is being constructed for the Appleton Fire Department.

City officials say relocation of the signals will permit widening of Drew Street when the wide driveway is constructed for the station, the latter to be completed in the fall.

The city engineering division was directed by the council to proceed with plans and specifications for the Franklin-Washington streets extension.

Charities Criticize Oshkosh United Fund

FOUR HEALTH AGENCIES ATTACK LETTER AGAINST NON-PARTICIPATING GROUPS
OSHKOSH — Representatives of four independent health agencies Friday afternoon criticized United Fund officials for a recent statement indicating that Oshkosh people do not have to give to those agencies' drives.

These agencies are the Wisconsin Heart Association, whose drive opens in February, the National Foundation (March of Dimes) whose drive now is underway, the American Cancer Society's Wisconsin Division, which is conducting its drive in April, and the Muscular Dystrophy Organization which conducted its drive last month.

State and local representatives of those agencies Friday strongly criticized a recent letter by W. Mead Stillman, president of Oshkosh United Fund Inc., who in a Dec. 3 letter stated "United Fund fair share givers have good reason to refuse to give again to popular health and welfare agencies which remain outside the fund despite invitations to apply for admission."

This letter was sent to some 600 major givers in the city, it was reported.

Part of Goal
The United Fund drive conducted in October had as part of its goal $25,000 for health work. The previous year it had raised $24,600 toward the health projects.

Representatives of the cancer, heart, March of Dimes and muscular dystrophy organizations, stated that their national organizations do not allow them to take part in the local United Fund or community chest drives.

During the 1962 drive of the United Fund in Oshkosh, the quotas set by United Fund officials, but not accepted by these agencies nor authorized for inclusion in the drive, were $9,700 for the cancer group, $6,000 each for the Heart Association and March of Dimes organization and $2,900 for muscular dystrophy. Checks for these amounts were rejected by those organizations.

Raises $8,000
In 1962, the March of Dimes drive in Oshkosh raised about $8,000, but in 1963 it did not conduct a drive. Its county total then was $16,000.

The Wisconsin Heart Association drive in Oshkosh last year experienced a drop of $4,500 from its 1962 drive in Oshkosh, raising only $2,580 last year.

The Cancer Society drive in Oshkosh last year raised $5,272, but went over its county goal with donations of $21,890. It had raised $13,700 in Oshkosh the year before. The $9,700 goal for inclusion as part of the 1962 United Fund drive was arbitrarily set by United Fund officials on the contention "at it takes 18 per cent of the goal to raise the money received, Mrs. Robert Murray, county chairman for the Cancer Society drive, stated.

This 18 per cent is far from true, she said, since our administration expenses were only 1 per cent of the goal.

All-Day Meeting
Participating in an all-day meeting of those four agencies Friday, in addition to Mrs. Murray were Harlan J. Illinger, Wausau, state representative of the National Foundation (March of Dimes) and Russell Fitzgerald, Neenah, county March of Dimes drive chairman, David H. Hartnett and Charles E. Sikorski, both of Milwaukee, development director and field representative, respectively, of the Wisconsin Heart Association, and Eugene Matel, Milwaukee, Muscular Dystrophy regional director and Glen Werner, Oshkosh Muscular Dystrophy Drive chairman.

They contended national studies by their organizations have shown that inclusion in local United Fund or Community Chest drives has lessened considerably the amounts contributed to those organizations as well as depriving or diminishing the effectiveness of the education programs to make persons aware of those health problems such as cancer, heart, arthritis, birth defects, muscular dystrophy and other health problems into which research is carried on by the funds given those organizations.
